Valiant Fight Ends Quietly

. . . STATE FUNERAL MONDAY

Washington (AP) — Ike is dead.

Soldier, president, and one of the revered figures of American history, Dwight David Eisenhower succumbed Friday at 11:25 a.m. CST in Walter Reed Army Hospital.

Heroic Struggle Ends

His death ended a heroic struggle against a long series of major illnesses with a heart weakened by repeated attacks.

He was 78 years old.

The funeral service will be Monday in the National Cathedral after the general's body has lain in state in the Capitol Rotunda. Burial will be Wednesday in a chapel near the Eisenhower Library in Abilene, Kan.

He had led the mightiest armed force ever assembled to victory over the German Nazis in World War II.

He was the architect of D-Day, the invasion of the European continent that broke the back of enemy resistance.

34th President

He was the 34th president of the United States during eight cold war years.

His was an administration of domestic tranquility.

The five-star general of the Army died peacefully and quietly, the commander of Walter Reed Hospital said, "after a long and heroic struggle."

President Nixon, who was Eisenhower's vice president for eight years and who assumed some presidential duties during the President's illnesses, formally announced the death in a proclamation.

Day Of Mourning

Designating next Monday a national day of mourning, Nixon said his mentor had exerted for a quarter of a century "a moral authority seldom equaled in American life.

By presidential order, the American flag will fly at half-staff across the world for 30 days.

The blow that ultimately brought Eisenhower down was congestive heart failure, diminishing the flow of blood through his weakened body.

Family Nearby

His wife, Mamie Doud Eisenhower, and members of the immediate family were nearby when Eisenhower died in his third-floor presidential suite.

President Nixon canceled all appointments for the next five days and went immediately from the White House to the hospital with his wife and eldest daughter, Tricia.

Solemn-faced, Nixon said nothing as he left the hospital grounds after a 30-minute meeting with the family. Several hundred persons gathered about the entrance to watch quietly.

Nixon learned of the death one minute after it occurred.

State Funeral

The capital prepared for a state funeral similar in some respects to the solemn rites for President John F. Kennedy in November 1963.

Plans for the funeral have been in print since February 1966. Eisenhower himself approved them. They are detailed down to the last salute.

Dignitaries from around the world are expected to attend.

It begins Saturday, when the body will be moved from Gawler's Funeral Home to the Bethlehem Chapel of the National Cathedral.

The general will lie in repose there for 24 hours after a brief, relatively private service. An honor guard of enlisted men and noncommissioned officers will be posted about the coffin.

Late Sunday morning, a hearse will carry the body to a point on Constitution Avenue in sight of the White House. There it will be transferred to a horse-drawn caisson, which will transport it to the U.S. Capitol in a grand procession.

21-Gun Salutes

Cannon will thunder 21-gun salutes. The rumble of muffled drums and the flourishes of military bands will accompany the procession. Air Force planes will fly overhead. A riderless black horse, boots reversed in the saddle, will trail the caisson.

The former president's body will lie in state in the Capitol Rotunda nearly 24 hours before being borne back to the National Cathedral Monday for the final Washington services.

Toward dusk, a train bearing the body will pull out of Union Station for a slow journey across half the continent to Kansas.

Born In Near Poverty

Born in near poverty in Denison, Tex., Oct. 14, 1890, Eisenhower came from a fundamentalist, deeply religious household. He attended West Point and, like most Army officers between the world wars, remained in obscurity.

World War II made his name a household word.

Offices To Close Monday

National and local businesss and government officials acted quickly Friday to cancel or curtail operations in observance of the death of former President Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Most closings and restrictions were announced for Monday, an officials day of mourning proclaimed by President Nixon.

All federal offices and banks will be closed for the day. Postmaster General Winton M. Blount said all post offices will be closd and no regular deliveries will be made.

The Supreme Court planned to convene Monday solely to adjourn out of respect for Eisenhower.

Many public schools were to be closed Monday as part of the regular Easter holiday, but some remaining open planned to hold memorial services for the late president.

Most state employes will be given Monday off in memory of the late President, Gov. Norbert T. Tiemann's office announced Friday.

The Statehouse will be open for business but only with skeleton staffs in each department, Tiemann's office said.

The Legislature will convene at 9 a.m. Monday but speaker Jerome Warner of Waverly reported he will urge the lawmakers to honor appropriately the former president and adjourn without carrying out the day's normal business.

Sen. Warner said Monday's legislative hearings will be held as scheduled.

State Selective Service Director Guy Henninger reported that inductions and physical examinations which had been scheduled for Monday have been postponed.

All federal offices will be closed in Lincoln Monday and the Social Security office, which usually is open on Saturdays, will be closed Saturday and Monday.

According to Lincoln officials, city and county offices will be open Monday and schools will hold classes.

Beer, Horse Betting Joined By Measure

By VIRGIL FALLOON
Star Staff Writer

A bill which Nebraska State Fair officials said would combine beer drinking with horse betting was advanced with the emergency clause Friday by the Legislature's Miscellaneous Subjects Committee.

Sen. E. Thome Johnson's LB1013. which would permit sale of beer and liquor on premises under the control of the State Board of Agriculture, drew no opposition.

"Beer would only be sold during horse racing at the fairgrounds," State Fair Manager Henry Brandt told the committee. "Every other race track in the state has this privilege now except the State Fair."

Brandt said beer would bolster track attendance and betting, which would result in increased state tax revenue and thus more aid to local county fairs.

Create Board

The committee also advanced an amended bill which would create a state examining and licensing board for electricians under the state labor commissioner's office.

The bill, LB987, originally proposed a state examining board for electricians, plumbers and heating contractors under the state fire marshal's office.

This bill, introduced by Sen. Willard Waldo of Dewitt, was supported by the Nebraska State Homebuilders Association but was strongly opposed by State AFL-CIO President Richard Nisley and representatives of the electrical and plumbing unions and heating contractors.

Under One Board

It was chiefly opposed because of its attempt to combine all three trades under one examining board. Spokesmen said the plan was "impractical and unworkable."

With the blessing of the electricians, the committee substituted provisions of LB808 for LB987 and advanced the amended measure on a 5-0 count.

Sen. Richard Proud, who introduced LB808 (now in effect LB987), said he would withdraw his bill from the Committee on Public Works.

Locating Game Commission In Ord Is To Be Considered

By Associated Press

The Legislature's Agriculture and Recreation Committee Friday afternoon voted 5-0 to send to the floor a controversial bill which would relocate the State Game Commission headquarters in Ord.

The move sets the stage for what may be a long and energetic floor debate over the measure since, by amendment, the bill could serve as a vehicle to relocate the Game Commission in any other Nebraska city.

Ord Sen. Rudolf Kokes' LB576 was introduced early in the legislative sesion in response to the commission's frustrated attempts to find a central Lincoln location.

Ord Offer Praised

Presently operating from seven different Lincoln offices, Commission Director Mel Steen has said the Ord offer was one of the best among several presented to the commission.

More On Legislature On Pages 3, 6, 15, 16

Other cities bidding on the headquarters site have included Alliance, Holdrege, Grand Island, Minden, North Platte, Albion, Neligh and Lincoln itself.

In a public hearing on LB576 last week, however, Grand Island representatives backed Kokes' bill without amendment.

Most of the offers from the various cities have included promises to construct a headquarters complex with a rent-lease arrangement set up for the state to repay the funds.

5-0 Vote Decides

The committee's decision Friday came on a 5-0 vote for advancement with two members absent and one not voting. An attempt to dispatch the bill to the floor Thursday had garnered only three favorable votes.

Meeting in special executive session Friday afternoon before a scheduled public hearing, the committee also voted to reconsider and then advance a bill which would clarify laws restricting the training of hunting dogs during nesting seasons.

Killed on a 5-0 vote was one of a pair of bills introduced by Sen. Fern Orme of Lincoln, intended to turn food and food preparation inspections over to the Health Department.

The inspections are presently carried out by the State Department of Agriculture. The committee held LB465, companion bill to the axed LB464, for possible amending and further consideration.

GOVERNMENT URGES REIMBURSEMENT . . .

Negro Blockbusting Victims Helped

Washington (AP) — The government filed an unprecedented petition Friday urging that Negro victims of blockbusting be reimbursed "millions and millions of dollars" for a "race tax" they were forced to pay on their homes.

It charged that such a race tax involved the charging of higher prices and interest rates to Negro home purchasers solely because they are black.

"Negroes have paid millions and millions of dollars throughout this country because of these transactions," said Asst. Atty. Gen. Jerris Leonard.

In Support Of Suit

The government move came in a "friend of the court" memorandum filed in U.S. District Court in Chicago in support of a suit brought by Negro homeowners in Chicago against 82 real estate agents, investors and lending institutions.

Although the action directly affects only Chicago Negroes, Leonard said it also is designed "to lay out a principle" that would offer court remedies to Negro victims of blockbusting throughout the country.

No help was proposed for whites who sold their homes at low prices because of fears of falling property values.

Whites who got cheated, said Leonard, "were just unfortunate victims, albeit that they participated in creating the problem" by panicking and fleeing residential areas faced with integration.

Outlawed By 1968 Act

Blockbusting — a technique whereby white homeowners are induced to sell at low panic prices so that profits, on resale to Negroes, will be much higher — was outlawed by the 1968 open housing act.

However, the Justice Department chose the nation's first civil rights law — the 1866 civil rights act — and the antislavery 13th Amendment as the basis for its Chicago memorandum.

The reason, Leonard said, is because the 1968 criminal statute requires a higher degree of proof and offers far less relief to Negroes than is available under the Reconstruction era law.

Contract, Property Rights

The memorandum contended that discrimination in sale and financing terms violates the 1866 act guaranteeing Negroes the same contract rights and the same rights of property ownership as enjoyed by whites.

In addition to Chicago, Leonard said, "strong evidence" on blockbusting has been found in Detroit.

Other cities surveyed were Baltimore, Washington, New Orleans, Fort Worth, Kansas City, and Buffalo.

Tribute Paid Ike

Tributes to the memory of Dwight Eisenhiwer were given by Army comrades, political allies and foes, and government and world leaders. Former President Harry S Truman, once Eisenhower's commander-in-chief and later political opponent, praised Eisenhower's service to his nation and to Western civilization. (More on Page 2.)

Mideast 'Highly Dangerous'

United Nations — Britain and France declared in the Security Council that the "highly dangerous" situation in the Middle East required prompt peace initiatives by the Big Four powers. Both countries made their statements on the second day of debate on complaints by Jordan and Israel on cease-fire violations.

Warrior Turned Crusader

As commander of the largest and most powerful army in the world's history, Gen. Eisenhower's liberation of Europe in World War II imbued him with a popularity that led him to two landslide elections as president of the United States. As president he turned from warrior to crusader for peace in the difficult years of the cold war. (More on Page 3.)

Washington — In a friend-of-the-court brief filed in Federal District Court in Chicago, the Justice Department threw its weight behind an attempt by Negroes to force "blockbusting" real estate speculators to pay back the high profits they made from Negro home buyers. (More on Page 1.)

ABM 'Political Gimmick'

Washington — A charge that the Safeguard antimissile system was a "purely political gimmick" was leveled against the Nixon administration by Sen. J. W. Fulbright. The outburst was prompted by the denial by a Stanford University physicist that he participated in the Pentagon review of the ABM system after Deputy Defense Secretary David Packard said he had.

NIXON LEADS NATION IN MOURNING . . .

'A Giant Of Our Age Is Gone,' Johnson Says

World News

Washington (UPI) — "Gen. Eisenhower held a unique place in America's history and its heart and in the hearts of people the world over."—President Nixon.

"A giant of our age is gone." — Former President Lyndon B. Johnson.

". . . I cannot forget his services to his country and to Western civilization."—Former President Harry S Truman.

From Far And Wide

The President led the nation in mourning Dwight David Eisenhower as tributes to the fallen soldier-statesman came from across the nation and around the world.

Proclaiming Monday as a day of national mourning, Nixon issued a statement saying of the man under whom he served eight years as vice president:

"For a quarter of a century he spoke with a moral authority seldom equaled in American public life.

"This was not only because he held the nation's highest military rank and its highest civilian office, but more importantly because of the kind of a man he was.

"He was a man of great strength, wisdom and compassion. But it always seemed to me that two qualities stood out above all in both his public and his private life: One was an unwavering sense of duty; the other was that whatever he did, he did because he believed it was right."

Johnson's statement, issued from his office in Austin, Tex., said:

"A giant of our age is gone. Dwight David Eisenhower began his service to his people as a soldier of war. He ended as a crusader for peace. For both he will be long remembered by a scarred but hopeful world — a world that loved him well.

"The sturdy and enduring virtues —honor, courage, integrity, decency —all found eloquent expression in the life of this good man and noble leader."

Truman, vacationing in Key West, Fla., said in a statement from his office in Independence, Mo.:

"Gen. Eisenhower and I became political opponents, but before that we were comrades in arms, and I cannot forget his services to his country and to Western civilization."

Citing Eisenhower's military leadership during and after World War II, Truman added:

"For these achievements, which brought him the highest office and the highest honors in the land, he must be long and gratefully remembered."

Chief Justice Earl Warren, who was appointed by Eisenhower, said:

"The passing of Gen. Eisenhower closes an illustrious chapter of world history. His accomplishments in war and peace distinguished him as one of the great men of his century."

Evangelist Billy Graham: "Former President Eisenhower was the greatest American since Lincoln."

Senate Republican leader Everett M. Dirksen: "Yes the world liked Ike. It will miss . . . his warm smile, his compassionate heart, his zeal for causes which are right and his dedication to his country and its future."

'Outstanding Courage'

House Speaker John W. McCormack: The death "takes from our midst a great American, a great statesman and military leader who served our country in peace and war with sound judgment and outstanding courage."

In a joint statement, Army Secretary Stanley Resor and Gen. William C. Westmoreland, Army chief of staff, said.

"The loss of this great patriot is felt very keenly by the Army to which he devoted so much of his life. His lifetime of accomplishment and selfless contribution to principles of freedom loving people everywhere stand as his legacy to the world."

Chairman J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., interrupted a meeting of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee to announce Eisenhower's death. "He stopped the war in Korea and for that we honor him," Fulbright said.

Leaders In Europe Extoll Eisenhower

London (AP) — Comrades-in-arms as well as leaders of nations whose forces fought under him and against him extolled Dwight D. Eisenhower Friday as a man who guided the liberation of Europe in World War II and helped calm a jittery postwar world.

"I am very distressed," said Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery, the British ground commander under Ike in the war. "I want to be left alone now." He and Ike had their differences during the war.

President Charles de Gaulle, leader of Free French forces serving under the supreme allied commander, messaged condolences to President Nixon saying:

"For me, I see disappear with much sadness a dear companion in arms and a friend." He told Mrs. Eisenhower: ". . . I will keep forever the memory of he who was a great soldier, an eminent statesman, a sincere friend of France and for whom I had a deep affection."

Moscow Radio's regular 10 p.m. newscast carried the first word to the Soviet people of Eisenhower's death. This was a one-sentence item without comment. It was read 20 minutes after the start of the half-hour program.

West German Chancellor Kurt Georg Kiesinger said: "We honor the memory of this great American who after World War II worked untiringly for safeguarding peace and freedom in the world and who, in the pursuit of these great aims, promoted a close and trustful cooperation between our two peoples. We shall preserve this friendship and cooperation in his spirit."

In a message to Nixon, President Giuseppe Saragat of Italy said, "The Italian people, in particular, who are bound to the American people by so many ties of blood and civilization, remember with emotion the figure of the great soldier and great citizen."

U.N. Secretary-General U Thant said Eisenhower "was a strong and practical supporter of the United Nations, where he is remembered especially for his initiative in promoting international cooperation in the peaceful uses of atomic energy."

Pope Paul VI conveyed to President Nixon "our heartfelt condolences on the loss of this your dear friend and mentor, and our sympathy to the nation."

SITE FOR BURIAL

Fulfilling Dwight D. Eisenhower's decision made several years ago, the body of the late president will be buried Wednesday in the Eisenhower Chapel at Abilene, Kan. The nondenominational chapel is located in front of the Eisenhower Center and across the street from the elementary school that Eisenhower attended as a boy.

Widow, Son Survive Ike

Washington (AP) — Dwight D. Eisenhower is survived by his widow, one son, four grandchildren and two brothers.

Survivors are the widow, Mamie, 72, Gettysburg, Pa.; son John Sheldon Doud, 46, Phoenixville, Pa.; and grandchildren, David, 20, a student at Amherst; Barbara Anne, 19, wife of Fernando Echavarra Uribe of Bogota, Colombia; Susan, 17, and Mary Jean, 13, who live at their Phoenixville home.

The brothers are Edgar N. of Tacoma, Wash., and Milton S. of Baltimore, Md.

A son, Dwight Doud, died in 1920 at the age of 3 of scarlet fever.

Four brothers who died were Paul, who died in infancy; Roy, in 1942; Arthur, in 1958, and Earl, in 1968.

Special Television Programs Set

Special television programming on former President Eisenhower for the weekend will cover the removal Saturday of the casket from the funeral home to Washington National Cathedral — CBS (WOW-TV, Channel 6, and KOLN-TV, Channel 10), 9:30 to 11 a.m.; NBC (KMTV, Channel 3), 9:30 to 10:30 a.m., and ABC (KETV, Channel 7), 10 to 10:30 a.m.

Channels 6 and 10 will have a special program on Eisenhower's friends from 9 to 10 p.m. Saturday and on foreign friends from 6 to 7 p.m. Sunday.

Sunday the removal of the casket from the cathedral to the Capitol rotunda will be seen on Channels 6 and 10 from 9:30 a.m. to 1 p.m., on Channel 3 from 9:30 a.m. until noon and on Channel 7 from 10 a.m. until 1 p.m.

Channel 12, KUON-TV, will have a special memorial tribute to Eisenhower at 10 p.m. Sunday.

State Mourns Eisenhower

Nebraskans — some of them longtime friends of the former president — joined the nation Friday in expressing their sorrow for the death of Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Gov. Norbert T. Tiemann, who directed state agencies to fly the flag at half-staff until after his funeral, said Eisenhower's "example of leadership will stand for all time as a solid testimony to his own greatness."

"His dedication to duty, his devotion to his country has been an example of outstanding leadership for many years," the governor said.

'Towering Figure'

"The world has lost one of its towering figures, one history will regard among the truly great," Sen. Roman Hruska declared.

"Born and raised against a humble Midwestern background, this man led the forces of freedom to victory in a great world war and at the end of that career answered a further call to serve his country in its highest office," the senator said.

Even after Eisenhower returned to private life from the presidency, Hruska said, "he continued to play a constructive and effective role as a true elder statesman, spurning petty partisan considerations and concerning himself only with the welfare of the country he loved and served so long and well."

Former Gov. Frank B. Morrison said Eisenhower "had a quality so badly needed today — the ability to unite people rather than divide them."

Missed By All

"As a partisan he rose above partisanship. And as an American he became a world leader," Morrison said. "We will all miss him."

Lt. Gov. John Everroad described the former chief executive as "probably the outstanding man in modern history. His entire life was dedicated to peace."

Rep. Robert Denney said Eisenhower's "devotion to God and country will set a record that all of us in public office and the citizens of our great country should attempt to follow."

Nebraska's Republican national committeeman, Donald R. Ross of Omaha, said that "like our first president, General Eisenhower was also first in war, first in peace and first in the hearts of his countrymen."

A family friend and one of Eisenhower's earliest political supporters, Fred A. Seaton of Hastings, mourned the loss of one of the "great leaders of the 20th century, if not the greatest."

Seaton, who served as the former president's secretary of the interior, said that "as time goes on, I am positive the American people and the people of all the world . . . will come to a full realization of just what this great man did for the cause of human society."

Former Gov. Val Peterson, ambassador to Denmark under Eisenhower, said that in his travels "I found that while people sometimes did not agree with him, he was universally admired and respected. He was a grand person to work with, demanding, friendly and possessing a wonderful sense of humor."

Ike Said 'Pleasant, Smiling Boy'

By SANDY STEVENSON
Star Staff Writer

"A very pleasant, smiling sort of a boy" is the way Dr. Adin H. Webb of 1130 H, Apt. 707, remembers Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Dr. Webb attended school in Abilene, Kan., the same time as the former president, and he said he regularly passed the Eisenhower home as he rode to school on his mule.

Eisenhower, according to the Lincoln physician, was in the same grade in high school, but then he suddenly dropped back to grade school and the next year Eisenhower and his younger brother, Edgar, entered high school together.

Dr. Webb and the former president both considered the West Point exam in 1911. Eisenhower decided to take the Naval Academy exam instead, but when he failed to pass it because of age, he went on to take the West Point exam, Dr. Webb recalled.

The 81-year-old physician said that he decided not to take the exam because he still would have had to pay for much of his education.

He taught school for several years until he had saved enough to go on to college.

Dr. Webb, after graduating from the University of Nebraska Medical School in 1916, became the medical director for the Lincoln Public Schools until he entered the service during World War I.

Dr. Webb later returned to Lincoln and set up a practice with offices in the old First National Bank Building. He practiced until his retirement in 1959.

He didn't stop working though after retirement. For the past 10 years, up until Jan. 20 when he had a heart attack, Dr. Webb has been working in the Social Security Office. He plans to return to work next month.

Ike's Political Success Was Largely Personal

© New York Times Service

Military leadership of the victorious Allied forces in Western Europe during World War II invested Dwight David Eisenhower with an immense popularity that twice elected him president of the United States.

His enormous political success was largely personal, for he was not basically a politician dealing in partisan issues and party maneuvers. What he possessed was a superb talent for gaining the respect and affection of the voters as the man suited to guide the nation through cold war confrontations with Soviet power around the world and to lead the country to domestic prosperity.

Eisenhower's gift for inspiring confidence in himself resided in an ability to harmonize diverse groups and disparate personalities into a smoothly functioning coalition.

Thus Eisenhower's two terms in the White House were a personal triumph in which he transcended the persons and forces around him. About his bewitching, benign and smiling figure there grew an aura of certain success that weathered shifts in his personal popularity and began to wane only in the years after he left the presidency.

Two Big Moments

Of all his unquestioned great moments, two stand out as landmarks. One is May 7, 1945, when Gen. Alfred Jodl, chief of the German armed forces operations staff, surrendered unconditionally to the Allies at a schoolhouse in Rheims, France, culminating the European phase of a conflict that had nearly consumed the world.

The other is Nov. 6, 1956, when Eisenhower was elected to a second term as president by one of the largest votes ever rolled up by a candidate of any party. His vote of 35.5 million has since been eclipsed, but it was a stunning performance at the time.

In the years that followed his military and presidential victories, he retired to the role of elder statesman, counseling his successors in the White House when they sought his advice and working to help unify (but never to lead) the Republican Party along moderate lines. In the campaign of 1964, however, he declined to use his prestige to block the nomination of Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona.

Midwesterner

Eisenhower was a product of Abilene, Kan., a small middle western town that did not have a paved street until 1910 — the year after his graduation from high school. He was also the product of a close-knit Mennonite German family that passed on to him the simple pieties of 19th-century agricultural America.

Insulated all of his adult life from the rise of industrialism and the anxieties of the job world by the institutional security of Army life, Eisenhower preserved these homilies virtually intact: God helps those who help themselves; the devil finds mischief for idle hands; do justice and you will receive justice; prosperity is a sign of divine blessing; a change of heart expiates sin.

Eisenhower's scrubbed face, his dimpled, infectious grin, his exuberance, his quick jovian anger (and his equally swift return to calm), his paternal manner, all fused into a personality that the American public responded to and heeded.

Cloaked with the power to command, he preferred to persuade and conciliate; he seemed to radiate goodwill and diplomacy. He was, in short, a man to be trusted, a man to make the complex simple, to do the job.

Much Forgiven

For these characteristics much was forgiven him: his vacations from the White House, his endless golf, his almost nightly bridge, his fondness for cowboy stories, his bumbling syntax; for he exemplified the homespun, folksy virtues that many Americans liked to think they themselves possessed, or should ideally possess.

Eisenhower's entrance into politics was reluctant.

Pressure built up to draft him for the race in 1948.

Despite his disclaimers, leading Republicans in the east kept their eye on him. In 1950, Thomas E. Dewey proposed Eisenhower as the nominee for 1952.

Having indicated that he would accept the party's designation, however, Eisenhower soon discovered that it was not quite his for the asking. Pitted against him was Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio, the "Mr. Republican" of the party's conservative wing.

The struggle was close, and the general was obliged to do some campaigning. Up to the convention in July, 1952, the outcome was unresolved. With the party machinery in Taft's hands, the issue hinged on how delegate contests in Texas, Louisiana and Georgia would be decided.

The Eisenhower forces, masterminded by Dewey, put across a "fair play" amendment which swung control of the convention away from Taft and led to Eisenhower's nomination.

As a vice-presidential candidate the convention chose Sen. Richard M. Nixon of California, a man known then for his conservative views.

'Clean Up Mess'

In the broadest terms, Eisenhower campaigned against his Democratic opponent, Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson of Illinois, on a pledge to clean up "the mess in Washington" and to balance the budget. Shortly before the election he promised he would personally go to Korea and try to end the war there. In its day-to-day unfolding, however, the campaign was much akin to a popularity contest.

Eisenhower polled 33,936,252 popular votes and 442 votes in the electoral college; Stevenson received 27,314,992 popular votes and 89 electoral votes.

Eisenhower began his first term in January, 1953, as a symbol of international goodwill as well as of national high purpose.

He had traveled to Korea, where a truce was soon effected, bringing back thousands of servicemen. At home the government climate was benign and the press was friendly, even protective, as a seeming new era opened.

Oddly, old guard Republicans, long entrenched in Congress, were among the most vocal critics, because the first Republican administration in 20 years did not make a clean break with the New and Fair Deals.

It was the Democrats who gave Eisenhower the votes he required to pass key legislation.

Staff System

In his conduct of the White House the new President introduced the staff concept, under which the workload was distributed among associates, Sherman Adams, a former New Hampshire governor, headed the staff with the title "the assistant to the president."

Throughout, the President was irritated by suggestions that his policies favored business at the expense of other segments of the population. He firmly believed that what was good for business was good for the nation.

His contention seemed borne out by the economic boom that began in mid-1954 and continued through the rest of the first term.

International Leadership

Under Eisenhower, the nation maintained its international leadership even if, at times, its course seemed uncertain and erratic.

The administration had high hopes that, with the Korean truce, psychological warfare would give the West an ascendancy in the battle of ideologies. But when Stalin died in 1953, and again when revolt flared three years later in Hungary and elsewhere behind the Iron Curtain, there was no master plan ready to capitalize on these developments.

Yet Eisenhower's atoms-for-peace proposal, made before the United Nations in 1953, and his open skies inspection plan, presented at the summit conference in Geneva in 1955, contributed markedly toward relaxation of world tensions and a more hopeful outlook.

Illness Caused Anxiety

To many Americans, however, events abroad seemed remote in those years. Anxieties centered rather on the President, who suffered two major illnesses toward the end of his first term.

The first, on Sept. 24, 1955, was diagnosed as a coronary thrombosis, a clot in the artery of the heart. It sent the President to the hospital for seven weeks. The second occurred eight and a half months later, on June 8, 1956, and was diagnosed as ileitis, an inflammation of the lower part of the small intestine. Eisenhower underwent a successful operation the next day to bypass the ileum, which was obstructing the intestinal tract.

Eisenhower announced on Feb. 29, 1956, that he would run again. Then at the peak of his popularity, he conducted a restricted campaign in which he stood on his record of peace and prosperity.

Stevenson, again the Democratic choice, hammered away at the "breakdown of leadership," at domestic and foreign policies that were "stalled on dead center" and at a "part-time president."

Developments in the Middle East in October, touched off by the Israeli march into Egypt and the Anglo-French thurst a Suez, unquesionably helped Eisenhower with the voters, for his quick response to those events put the U.S. on the side of peace.

457 Electoral Votes

The election results gave him 35,582,236 votes, a record up to that time, and 457 electoral votes, including those of five southern states. Stevenson's popular vote was 26,031,322, his electoral total 73.

Difficult and fateful problems at home, abroad and in space confronted Eisenhower in his second term.

Gov. Orval E. Faubus of Arkansas called out the Arkansas National Guard in September, 1957, to prevent Negro students from entering the Little Rock Central High School. When a federal district court injuction forced him to withdraw the guard, rioting broke out and the Negroes had to leave school.

Eisenhower ordered federal troops to Little Rock, where they restored order. In this crisis Eisenhower spoke up for obedience to federal law and the courts, but he avoided a direct commitment to the morality of integration.

Economy Slumped

Business slumped sharply in the winter of 1957-58, and only slowly recovered. By July, 1959, when a steel strike dealt the economy another stinging blow, employment still had not recovered. The national debt climbed higher than ever.

The Soviet Union achieved a stunning scientific success, with strong military implications, when it orbited the first man-made earth satellite in October, 1957.

Tensions in the Far East reached a peak a month later when the President, in the middle of a trip through the area was forced to cancel a visit to Japan because of anti-American rioting there.

The demands of the times would have taxed the energy of the healthiest of men,and they were especially heavy for Eisenhower on account of his heart attack and his bout of ileitis.

His health was further compromised Nov. 25, 1957, when he suffered an occlusion of a small branch of the middle cerebral artery on the left side. He was left with a mild aphasia (difficulty in speaking) and he was not pronounced recovered from the stroke until March 1, 1958.

Rests, vacations

Eisenhower sought to preserve his strength and health by daily rests, weekends at his farm at Gettysburg, Pa., and periodic golfing holidays. Although public concern over his physical condition was intense, the President's popularity, as measured by public-opinion polls, began a perceptible decline soon after he took his second oath of office in January, 1957.

Although the President's handling of the explosive Little Rock situation was applauded in the north and west, his prestige generally dropped with the downturn in the national economy which began in late 1957.

Some observers attributed the decline of Eisenhower's influence to his being the first president whose tenure was limited to two terms by the 22nd amendment. Others felt that the President was delegating too many of his functions to subordinates.

Congress Lost

In the 1958 elections the Republicans lost 47 House seats and 13 of 21 contested Senate seats. The Democrats controlled Congress by the widest margins since the Roosevelt landslide of 1936.

The elections were the nadir of Eisenhower's political fortunes. By the spring of 1959 some observers were talking about "the new Ike," while others insisted that it was only the re-emergence of the old Ike who had so fired the country's imagination in 1952. In either event, all were agreed that there was a considerable change.

One evidence of this change was a firmer attitude toward Congress.

A second evidence of change was in the field of personal diplomacy and involved a visit to the U.S. by Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev of the Soviet Union in September, 1959.

Although in later years Eisenhower disclosed that the Khrushchev visit had been authorized through a misunderstanding of his instructions by the State Department, he made the most of it at the time by inviting the Russian leader of the White House and to Camp David, the President's weekend retreat in Maryland.

'Thaw' Resulted

These informal talks resulted in what was termed "the spirit of Camp David," a thaw in the cold war between the U.S. and Russia in which peaceful coexistence was to replace bellicosity.

The Camp David spirit persisted until May, 1960, when a summit meeting in Paris was blasted by the disclosure that the U.S. was using a U-2 photo-reconnaissance plane over the Soviet Union.

Although Eisenhower regained a measure of popularity in the campaign of 1960 and spoke for the candidacy of Nixon, his vice president, it was not enough to carry the country.

FOR VICTORY . . . Ike strikes a familiar pose in 1956.

'Farewell' Important

(EDITOR'S NOTE: The following is an appreciation of Gen. Eisenhower by Arthur Krock, the New York Times' Washington correspondent for several years.)

© New York Times Service

By ARTHUR KROCK

Washington, March 28 — "To mold, to balance and to integrate" the forces contending, designedly or inherently, to undermine "the principles of our democratic system" — this was the lifetime mission of Dwight D. Eisenhower as he saw and practiced it.

In many conversations with him, before during and after his presidency, his sense of this mission invariably emerged. So it was wholly in character that his fixed dedication dominated Eisenhower's farewell presidential address to the American people on the night of Jan. 17, 1961.

To schoolboys the best-known examples of state papers in this particular field are Washington's Farewell Address and the peroration of Lincoln's second inaugural.

But as time recedes into eternity from the day of Eisenhower's death on March 28, 1969, the extraordinary combination in his Farewell — stress on his lifetime principle, and foresight of the threat to which it was being increasingly exposed — will establish this document also as fundamental to the basic education of Americans.

He cited two forces in particular as comprising the threat to "the very structure of our society": a military-industrial complex and a "scientific - technological elite," both born of another new threat.

And this he described as "a hostile ideology — global in scope, atheistic in character, ruthless in purpose and insidious in method." In other words, the Bolshevist design to impose communism by force throughout the world.

Ike As General Was Patient Conciliator

By HANSON W. BALDWIN

Dwight D. Eisenhower was born in an age when personal generalship at high command was a thing of the past. He could not command from horseback, as Napoleon did, nor could he plan in a tent, like Ulysses S. Grant and Robert E. Lee.

Eisenhower's career spanned an age when the big battalions had been dethroned by the big factories as the arbiters of battle. And he was to live to see the "big bang" replace industrial output as the primary factor of a nation's military strength.

The development of nuclear weapons turned the military clock back during Eisenhower's lifetime, not to superior numbers, not to superior mobilization potential, but to instantly ready professional forces capable of manning the ramparts of the sky.

Age Of War Technology

Eisenhower, therefore, was born into the age of technological revolution in war — an age when general management and an ability to capitalize on new technical developments, rather than personal generalship, were the hallmarks of military success. He also rose to power in a coalition war, with the need for the qualities of conciliation and patience in a supreme commander.

As an officer Eisenhower had these qualities in abundance. His great achievement in World War II was as mediator, adjudicator and manager.

Eisenhower had two other great qualities as a leader. He was able to pick good assistants and he had the knack of getting to the heart of a problem quickly, even though the subject matter might be unfamiliar to him. And when the chips were down, he did not lack decisiveness.

BEFORE D-DAY . . . with Air Marshal Arthur Tedder (right) and Field Marshal Bernard Montgomery.

His decision to go ahead with the Normandy invasion in June, 1944, despite dubious weather prospects has perhaps been both overpublicizey and overpraised. It was the correct decision but it was also the easiest and most logical one at that stage of preparations.

Less known, but requiring greater resolution, was Eisenhower's decision to assault the Italian-held island of Pantelleria in the Mediterranean. This was a prelude to the invasion of Sicitly.

The assault plan was so strongly opposed by one of his British subordinates that the differences were carried to Prime Minister Winston Churchill. The British officer held that the island was so heavily fortified that an assault would risk geat loss and repulse. Eisenhower maintained his stand despite great pressure. After heavy preliminary bombing and bombardment Pantelleria surrendered before the first assault wave had reached its shores.

Had Common Sense

Eisenhower was in no way an intellectual soldier but he had a native shrewdness and common sense.

Eisenhower's commanding roles in World War II did not test him as a tactician; tactics were essentially the province of his division and corps commanders.

As a stategist, history will probably judge Eisenhower charitably but not as a planner of brilliance.

He had, as a matter of fact, little opportunity to display strategic talents. The strategy of World War II was not born from any one brain; it was a composite of plans developed by many men, and approved in the final analysis by the joint and combined chiefs of staff, Winston Churchill and President Roosevelt. Eisenhower in World War II was really more the executor of strategy than its maker.

In one major respect the verdict of history will cast a shadow across Eisenhower's final World War II victories. The halt at the Elbe River, the failure to drive for Berlin and the orders to Gen. George Patton to halt short of Prague are now generally viewed as mistakes — political rather than military.

U.S. or British capture of Berlin and Prague before the Russians reached those cities might have changed to some extent the postwar political complexion of Europe and would have strengthened the West's hand in its post-war conflict with communism.

The capture of Berlin prior to Russian conquest was perhaps possible, but not certain.

Two Factors

Eisenhower was undoubtedly persuaded not to attempt it by two factors: the then current but fallacious belief that the Nazis would attempt to continue indefinite resistance from a "national redoubt" in the Alps, and the estimate of Gen. Omar Bradley, commander of the 12th Army Group, that the capture of Berlin might cost 100,000 casualties. Prague could admittedly have been taken without much difficulty well before the advancing Soviet armies reached it.

These "might-have-beens" of history troubled Eisenhower later, but his defense of his actions was based on the premise that Berlin and Prague were not military objectives and that his concern was to wipe out as quickly as possible organized German resistance.

He, like Gen. George C. Marshall, Army chief of staff, then had a kind of political astigmatism, and the unconditional-surrender concept had in it no place for military operations that had essentially political goals.

IN LINCOLN IN '52 . . . with Gov. Val Peterson.

Visited Lincoln Twice

Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower had visited Lincoln twice — once as a five-star general and a second time during his first presidential campaign.

He was the featured speaker at the State Fair Veteran's Day ceremonies in September, 1946.

Eisenhower, chief of staff of the Armed Forces, had recently returned as a hero of World War II and he spoke to at least 20,000 veterans at the fair.

On his second visit to Lincoln on July 3, 1952, Eisenhower spoke to a crowd estimated at 25,000 to 30,000 people gathered in front of the Capitol.

Eisenhower made other visits to Nebraska in 1952 and 1954. His last trip to the state was in October, 1962, when he spoke in Omaha.

EVENTS

IN PERSPECTIVE

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

One aspect of defense or another continues to occupy a prominent place in the minds of the American people. Vietnam and the draft are two such subjects of concern.

On Vietnam, the administration seems to be developing a bit of a credibility gap of its own. The President speaks of secret talks that must be kept secret and the secretary of state then discusses the vital element of those talks.

The secretary of state speaks hopefully of an early mutual withdrawal of troops only a few weeks after the secretary of defense has said there is no sign of any substantial reduction in troops in Vietnam for two years.

One does not know whether the administration speaks for the benefit of the American people or for the benefit of a propaganda effect upon the Viet Cong and North Vietnamese.

★

But the latest word comes from Secretary of State William P. Rogers who lays emphasis on the mutual withdrawal of troops "over a very short period of time." If we can pull it off, it would be wonderful but the North Vietnamese have bluntly rejected any such suggestion in the past.

President Johnson would have engaged in mutual withdrawal of troops, too, but the communists have always said that there is nothing to talk about except the U.S. leaving Asia.

The mutual troop withdrawal proposal would seem to be a solution quite favorable to our side. Presumably, the South Vietnam government could maintain itself if it faced only the opposition of the rebellious Viet Cong forces.

If it could not, then that is a condition with which we would simply have to live. But the communists also know the weakness of the Viet Cong's position militarily and politically. Thus, it would not be advisable to hold your breath until the mutual withdrawal of troops is an accomplished fact.

★

The draft could not be changed substantially, of course, until the Vietnam war were settled. But President Nixon has appointed a task force charged with the responsibility of coming up with a plan for an all-volunteer military.

Again, this is a wonderful concept, in most regards, but it is likely to be a long way off. Money alone will be a major stumbling block.

An enlisted man enters the military today at a base pay rate of $102 per month, with food, clothing, shelter and all medical care provided. If married, his total pay comes to $212.

After four years in the military, the enlisted man might expect to be a sergeant. His pay then would be a basic $251 or, if married, $381 a month.

Obviously, that is not the kind of salary scale that is going to attract many good people. If starting as an officer, you do a little better—$343 basic and $500 a month if married.

★

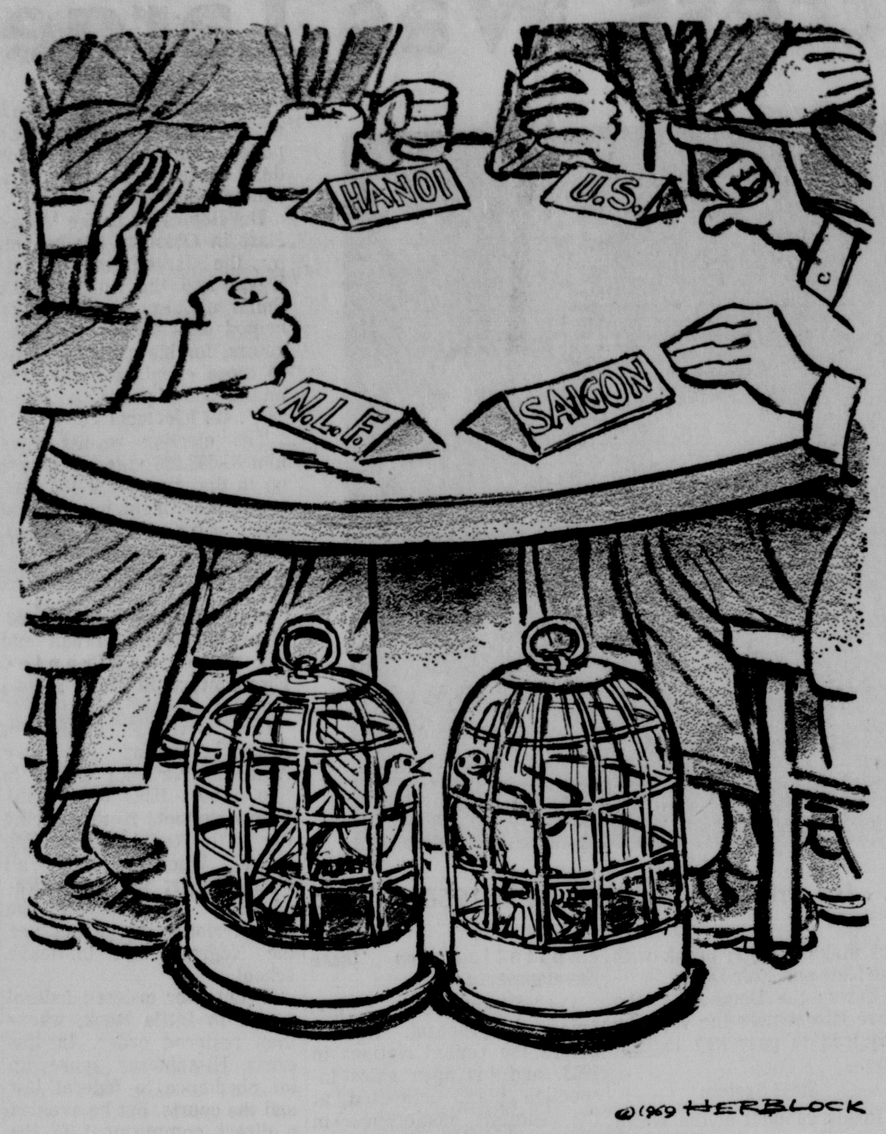

It is difficult to see how military pay could be brought to the point where an all-volunteer service was possible, particularly in the ranks of the enlisted man. A doubling of pay would not be at all out of line and where would the money for that possibly come from?

Beyond that, of course, are many other considerations for the task force to look at. By its very nature, the military is a highly disciplined organization, rigidly structured and with an extreme class consciousness.

This as much as the pay would have to undergo some change before a volunteer service would be practical. Not enough people would today subject themselves to the military way of life to provide sufficient volunteer forces, again especially in the enlisteed ranks.

But with the purpose of its existence what it is, is it possible to make any meaningful changes in the military structure? Perhaps, but the task force has its work cut out for it.

'What Do You Hear—Privately?'

Great And Gallant American

All Americans stop at this point in history to sadly reflect upon the death of former President Dwight D. Eisenhower. His was a life of tremendous influence upon the nation in two vital areas — the military and the political.

From a hero of World War II, General Eisenhower went on to become President Eisenhower. In both capacities, he witnessed what probably was the end of an era. Probably we will never again have a war such as World War II and we may never again have a national spirit such as that which prevailed through the Eisenhower administration of the 1950's.

The war was a popular one, in the historic context of national preservation, political simplicity and patriotism. It was not a popular humanistic movement, of course, but it was carried out in the name of freedom and individual honor and integrity.

Today, the international scene has become much more complicated with war carrying the threat of the total destruction of mankind. Civilization itself has become more sophisticated and more concerned over the value of human life. There is today a deeper understanding of the political conflicts that in the past has led to war.

In the nation, the Eisenhower years were the last of contented times. From the end of his presidency on, a new social consciousness has taken hold in the land and new political concepts and forces have materialized.

The death of Mr. Eisenhower takes from us a man of spirit, dedication and ability. It leaves us with an even keener recognition of the challenges we must face as a part of our legacy as Americans.

Back At Same Stand

We are back at the same old stand when it comes to apportionment. The stage has been set in the Legislature for another struggle over this subject. Nebraska faces no immediate apportionment problem but senators will do battle over the question of whether the state favors representation by population or by population and area.

Currently, we are on record as calling for a federal constitutional amendment to permit area and population representation. An effort will be made to eliminate the area consideration.

The arguments are the same today as they have been in the past. No scientific facts can be presented to settle the debate. It is strictly a matter of opinion.

In our opinion, population is the only legitimate basis for determining representation. It is people who make the world go around, not areas. It is with people that we are concerned and if we serve them properly, we quite obviously serve the area or interest they represent.

But when you get into area representation, you are talking about interest groups and there is no end to that. Preference to a rural area, for instance, is preference for an interest and a way of life. If this is to be given consideration in public affairs, what about the particular and special interests of other people?

We are a widely diversified social order and it would be impossible to incorporate everyone's individuality in the makeup of government. Thus, we elect people to represent other groups of people as a whole. Area representation is simply a touch of anarchy added to democracy and we fail to see its validity.

Growth means people,
People need homes,

National Anthem

Lincoln, Neb.

"The Star-Spangled Banner" was written by Francis Scott Key, an American lawyer, in September, 1814. He was detained on a British prison ship and saw the bombardment of Fort McHenry. It was such a spectacular exchange of shot and shell between the Americans and the enemy that he was inspired by the sight of the Stars and Stripes still ripling as dawn came forth above the fort to write these powerful, patriotic words of our national anthem. Later John Stafford Smith wrote the music. By presidential order in 1916, it became our national hymn, confirmed by Congress in 1931.

Down through the generations, millions of school children and adults have stood proudly before our flag and sung these potent words. Now along comes a TV guest who seemingly can't carry a tune in a basket and wants to exchange this song for "America, The Beautiful." Just because one can't sing, the privilege shouldn't be denied to those who can. Someone will come up next with a new idea for the Lord's Prayer.

Money Wasted

Wymore, Neb.

Well, it looks as if the bill will pass to make the state responsible for the care of the mentally ill instead of the counties. But the state cares little about money and how it is spent, so a little more makes no difference. Let me give one or two examples.

A few years back, an old building at the Beatrice State Home was remodeled to house small boys, some crippled, severely retarded, etc. Beautiful kitchens were put in and the finest equipment, beautiful tables, chairs and dishes and the like. But all at once it was decided not to use these facilities. Instead the patients from this building were to be taken for all their meals over to another building. Many of them could not walk and the wards with so little help had to assist with coats, caps and overshoes.

In another building there was a ward with 35 patients and a dining-room just across the hall to which the patients could be taken. But a large sum of money was spent to tear out a large play pen. They wanted this space for a dining-room. They knocked out large cement stalls in the dormitory where the children slept to make room for a play area. No gates to separate it from the bed area, so the patients can play in the bed all day. This accounted for a lot of extra clean bed linen.

No one seems to care how money is wasted when it comes to the tax dollars. The wards are still overcrowded and the ward aides are few, but I guess the big show must go on, with no thought for the severely retarded in mind.

Thank You

Lincoln, Neb.

For myself and the Heart Association, I would like to thank The Star for the help and support during the heart campaign. It was very much appreciated.

MRS. FRAN JOHNSON
Pubic Reations Chairman

BISHOP JAMES A. HEALY

They Had A Dream

His parishioners called Bishop James Augustine Healy the "children's bishop." Bishop of the poor would have been an equally fitting title.

Bishop Healy was spiritual leader of all Catholics in the Portland, Maine diocese—but for children and for the poor he had a special spark of compassion.

The bishop was the Catholic Church's first Negro bishop in America. Though there were whisperings behind his back regarding his race, Bishop Healy became a respected member of the Catholic hierarchy and beloved leader of his flock.

During his 25 years as bishop, the Rev. Healy built countless schools and orphanages throughout his diocese. Among them were St. Joseph's Academy, a girls' school operated by the Sisters of Mercy since 1831; St. Elizabeth's Orphan Asylum (now St. Elizabeth's Home) and the Healy Asylum for homeless children.

One of his first acts after becoming bishop was to take control and press the completion of the Kavanaugh School in Portland. After it was completed, Bishop Healy was the school's most regular visitor.

In winter, he frequently could be found ice-skating on the frozen pond behind the church. Another of his favorite pastimes was to hitch up his horse-drawn sleigh and pull a train of children on sleds through the streets behind him.

The bishop was a warm, compassionate man who often visited the poor in his parish, both in their homes and at their jobs. But he always refused their invitations for dinner because he feared by entertaining him, they would deprive themselves.

Bishop Healy was the eldest of 10 children, most of whom devoted their lives to the church. One became the president of Georgetown University. A brother, Sherwood, was a candidate for the same bishopric awarded to James.

Born in Macon, Ga., in 1830, Bishop Healy was the son of an Irish immigrant who married his Negro slave. Young James was sent off to a Quaker school in Flushing, L.I., at the age of 7. After that he entered Holy Cross College, graduating in 1849 at the head of his class.

That same year he entered a seminary in Montreal. He completed his training for the priesthood at St. Sulpice in Paris and was ordained in 1854.

Returning to the United States, Father Healy was appointed secretary to the Bishop of Boston, then chancellor and finally vicar general. In 1866, he took charge of St. James parish in Boston and was instrumental in establishing an orphanage, a foundling home and an institution for homeless girls.

He was consecrated bishop of Portland on June 2, 1875. He then was 44. In 1900, his silver jubilee year, Bishop Healy was made an assistant to the papal throne. He died several months afterward.

Stubborn Oldster Blocks Vital Bill

WASHINGTON — The bill for federal aid to education, despite a pressing need for passage, has come squarely up against the obstruction of 79-year-old Rep. William Colmer of Mississippi. As chairman of the House Rules Committee, he has life-and-death power over legislation.

Rep. Carl Perkins of Kentucky, hard-working chairman of the Education and Labor Committee, has a bill for the five-year extension of aid for elementary and secondary schools in final shape and ready to pass. It was to be one of the first acts of Congress. He had wanted to bring the school aid bill to a vote prior to the Easter recess — which will begin April 3. However, Colmer, no friend of education, has chosen this time for a visit back home in Mississippi. As chairman, Colmer alone is able to OK a hearing by his rules committee.

Perkins was so furious over the Mississippian's filibustering tactics that he protested to Speaker John McCormack. The speaker promptly called a meeting in his chambers attended by Perkins, majority leader Carl Albert, D-Okla., and whip Hale Boggs, D-La. They put through a long distance phone call to Colmer in Pascagoula. McCormack pleaded with Colmer to return to Washington so the House could pass the education bill before Easter. Colmer said no.

Then Rep. Albert got on the line.

"Listen, Bill," he said, "you are making a bad mistake. I've made a commitment to a number of our colleagues that the House will act on this legislation before Easter, but you are preventing me from carrying out the commitment. The members won't understand this."

"Well, I'm sorry, Carl, but it's impossible for me to return to Washington right now," replied Chairman Colmer.

Albert then pleaded with Colmer to delegate Rep. Ray Madden of Indiana, No. 2 Democrat on the rules committee, as acting chairman to conduct a hearing. Again Colmer refused.

NOTE — Colmer gets around $800,000 a year for his Mississippi district through a federal "impacted" school funds because the Keesler Air Force Base is located there. However, he frowns on federal school funds for the rest of the nation.

President Nixon has strongly hinted to Republican congressional leaders that he might still drop the controversial safeguard anti-ballistic missile system if developments should justify it.

Chatting with the GOP congressional command over ham and eggs at the White House the other morning, he emphasized that he was going ahead only with two "prototype" ABM sites. This would require the construction of a costly electronic warning and guidance system. Approximately 60 Spartan and Spring missiles would also be built for each site. Then an additional 12 sites would be leased in case the President should decide to expand the system.

But he suggested that he might abandon the system altogether if an agreement could be negotiated with the Russians or if the prototype equipment fails to measure up technologically to the requirements.

This Country Needs Canada's Moral Support As Canada Hesitates About Staying In NATO

WASHINGTON — Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau of Canada told President Nixon here the other day that the Canadian government would decide within a week or so whether Canada will remain in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, and this simple declaration of doubt from our closest ally dramatized just how fragile our alliances are.

Nobody in Washington after the allied divisions over Vietnam, Europe, the Middle East and Cuba had much faith that nations with common objectives would adopt common policies or make common sacrifices for common ends, but Canada is something special in the mind of the United States.

If we couldn't count on the Canadians, who's left? It wasn't that the Nixon-Trudeau conversations went wrong. Actually, they went very well, and the Canadian prime minister's talks with Secretary of State Rogers were equally frank and even amiable.

Nevertheless, while the conviction remains here that the Canadians will stay in NATO, the doubt remains. After all, if you ask the girl if she loves you, and she says, "I'll think about it and tell you later," you are bound to wonder if everything's all right.

It may very well be that Prime Minister Trudeau underestimated the effect in Washington of his hesitation about staying in the alliance. Officials here have been taught by General de Gaulle not to be sentimental about "the old alliances." They understand the economic plight of the British and the strategic dilemma of the West Germans, and the historical difficulty of the Japanese, but Canada is something separate and special.

When the United States was trying to put together some kind of world order at the end of the last world war at the Chultepec, Dumbarton Oaks and San Francisco conferences, which finally created the United Nations organization, the relationship between Washington and Ottawa was fundamental.

It was the remarkable Canadian contingent at San Francisco of Mike Pearson, Norman Robertson and Escott Reid, with his own personal charter for world sanity, and all the rest of that young Canadian outfit in those critical years — including, unbelievably, two characters called Hume Wright and Hume Wrong — who were closer to the divided and troubled American delegation of Edward Stettinius, Arthur Vandenberg, Adlai Stevenson and Tom Finletter than any other delegation in the world.

This was where the dream of "collective security" among the nations of the world really lay. The French, the British, and certainly the Soviets were cynical about getting the big powers to work for peace together, and the Canadians and the rest of the middle powers had their doubts, but when the chips were down, the Canadians fought harder and more effectively for the principle of collective security than anybody else.

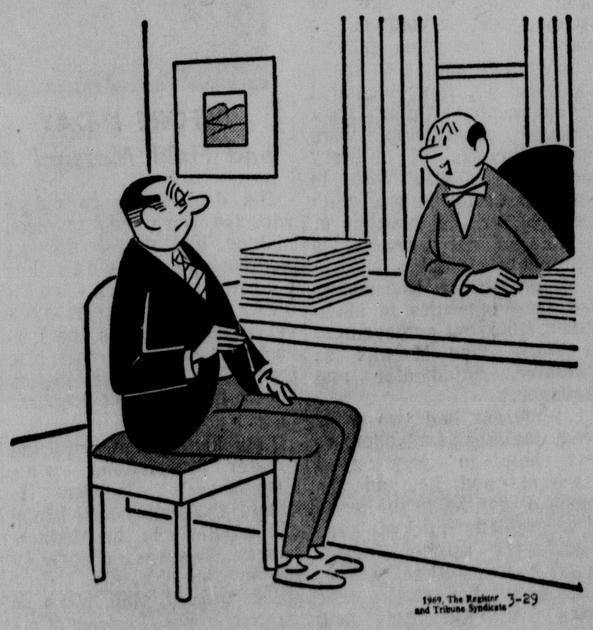

No wonder then that Washington, despite its disappointments of the last few years, was startled by Trudeau's doubts. He is, of course, playing his own politics. He came to office promising to question everything in the past, and he is doing this with Washington and NATO as he is doing it with Quebec, labor policy and everything else at home.

But Washington has been so shaken by its problems and so forsaken — as it sees it — by the rest of the allies that in a funny kind of way, it needs the symbolic support of Canada at this moment in world politics more than it cares to admit.

Canada's air and ground forces in Europe are not really important. But Canada's moral and political support are vital, and this is what Trudeau said he would think about a little later.

Plane Partially Ruptured During Dive, Says FFA

Anselmo (AP) — A plane which crashed near here Jan. 11 apparently disintegrated partially before impact while in a steep dive, a report of a Federal Aviation Agency investigation said.

Lt. Mike McCurdy of the Nebraska Civil Air Patrol said the report was released following reconstruction of the wreckage.

Four students and two faculty members from Augustana College at Sioux Falls, S.D., died in the crash. The wreckage and their bodies were discovered Tuesday by coyote hunters in a pasture about 12 miles west of here.

Steep Dive

The FAA report said the plane apparently went out of control and into a steep dive, while en route from Colorado Springs to Sioux Falls shortly after dark.

Indications were that the cabin ruptured before the plane crashed into the ground and at least one victim was thrown out of the cabin when it ruptured.

McCurdy said the FAA investigators felt that the right wing was also torn loose by air pressure before the crash, which apparently occurred at about a 60-degree angle at a speed of from 125 to 140 miles an hour.

The probe of the wreckage indicated that the fuselage peeled apart upon impact and that the five remaining passengers were thrown from the wreckage and killed instantly.

McCurdy said the FAA investigation was nearly complete.

Mellowed Carpenter Accepts Kind Words On 69th Birthday

By ODELL HANSON
Associated Press Writer

Scottsbluff's "Terrible Terry" Carpenter turned 69 years of age Friday, and the birthday anniversary not only provoked a lusty "happy birthday" song but some complimentary tributes from colleagues in the Legislature.

In mellow mood, Carpenter acknowledged the kind words.

"This is one of the few times that words don't come easy," he said.

"When you arrive at the age of 69, you begin to realize that you're being phased out . . .

"If you're like me, you have a deep seated fear and apprehension that the curtain is being closed and the lights are being turned out. But the show is going to go on, even if you're not going to be in the cast. You may still be here, and you hope that you'll not be forgotten."

Recalls Past

Sen. Claire Holmquist of Oakland recalled that Carpenter, on his birthday four years ago, had complained that "this is getting to be too much" and "I don't know how much longer I'm going to be able to stand it."

But Holmquist said it presently looks like Carpenter "can go on forever."

There was some lighthearted banter.

Sen. Robert Clark of Sidney said western Nebraska senators met Thursday to consider a birthday gift for their western colleague.

"We knew we couldn't give him a Cadillac because he already has one," said Clark.

"So we decided to give him a bottle of whisky.

"We took up a little collection, we bought this bottle of whisky and then someone came up with the idea that he doesn't drink.

"So we drank the whisky, but we want to thank him for it anyway."

Nuernberger Named Head Of State ASC

Washington (UPI) — Agriculture Secretary Clifford M. Hardin Friday named three new members to the Nebraska State Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee which handles state level administration of federal farm programs.

Gordon L. Nuernberger of Wayne was named chairman of the committee. Lowell H. Hummel of Fairbury and Emile C. Stratton of Lyman were named committee members.

The new members replace three resigned Johnson administration appointees — chairman Charles E. Brodersen of Herman, and members Murl I. Mauser of Big Springs and Robert K. Pearson of Plymouth.

Livestock Feeder

Nuernberger, the new chairman, is a 58-year-old farmer and livestock feeder who has served on a number of state agricultural and educational agencies.

Hummel lost a bid earlier this year to be state Republican chairman when he was defeated by incumbent Lorraine Orr of North Platte. He was Republican committeeman for the 1st Congressional District prior to that time.

Nixon Appoints 2 GOP Women

Washington (AP) — President Nixon named two top-ranking Republican women Friday to be his Treasurer of the United States and his director of the U.S. Mint.

Dorothy Elston, 52, whose signature will go on all U.S. paper money, was named treasurer. Mary Brooks, 61, was named director of the mint.

Intruders Fail To Enter Safe After Breakin

. . . At Lodgepole

Lodgepole (AP) — The First State Bank of Lodgepole was broken into during the night Thursday, but the intruders did not get into the safe.

Vice President Frank Pivonka said the vault was entered and he thought some loose coins kept in it were taken. Some safety deposit boxes were rifled.

The breakin was discovered about 8 a.m. Friday when bank employes entered the building. Indications were the intruders rifled drawers in the bank, throwing contents about the room.

Officers said entry was gained by drilling a hole through the second floor into the vault ceiling.

On Oct. 11, 1964, the same type of entry was tried into the bank and it, too, was unsuccessful as far as reaching the safe. The drilling place, however, was at a different point.

Mitchell Plans Supreme Court Appeal For Davis

Outstate Nebraska Bureau

Grand Island — John Mitchell, Omaha defense attorney, will appeal the conviction and life imprisonment sentence against Thomas F. Davis to the Nebraska Supreme Court, he said.

Davis, 32, Mitchell's client, was convicted by a Hall County District Court trial jury March 14 of first degree murder in the death of his wife Phyllis last Aug. 14.

Mitchell filed notice Thursday evening he would appeal the verdict, after Judge Donald Weaver ordered Davis taken to the Nebraska Penal Complex to start serving his term. If the state Supreme Court appeal fails, Mitchell said, he'll take the appeal to any higher courts "we might find necessary."

Mail Pours In On School Aid Bill

By The Associated Press

A deluge of letters in support of two bills which would increase government aid to private and parochial schools took the legislators by surprise Friday morning.

"Look at that," Education Committee Chairman Lester Harsh of McCook said, motioning toward the 800 letters stacked on his desk. "How do you expect me to go through that in one day."

The two bills, LB1022, sponsored by Omaha Sen. Harold Moylan, and LB1083, sponsored by Sen. Eugene T. Mahoney of Omaha, will be given public hearing by the education committee on April 2 and April 16.

LB1022 would revise the distribution of money received from the federal government for educational purposes, and LB1083 would submit to the voters a constitutional amendment which would authorize the legislature to make grants to nonpublic schools.

Some Omaha senators as well as Education Committee members reported receiving more mail than ever before in their legislative careers.

Omaha Sen. Richard Proud, who received 400 letters Friday morning, said, "it's like nothing I've ever seen."

"You understand, I'm not complaining about it," Proud said. "I'm just astounded."

Outstate committee members Thomas Kennedy of Newman Grove and Theodore Wenzlaff of Sutton reported mail only slightly increased from normal. Harsh said only a handful of the 800 letters he received were from outside Omaha.

'Most Effective Lobbying'

"The most effective lobbying we get is personal mail," Harsh said. "Organized letters have less effect, of course, than unorganized letter writing."

Sen. Harold F. Pedersen, who is both from Omaha and an Education Committee member, said the volume of mail Friday "was a goodly number." Some of the letters opposed the bills, he said.

Wahoo Girl's Fatal Stabbing Remains Mystery To Officials

By CRAIG CALLAWAY
Outstate Nebraska Bureau

Wahoo — Saunders County Attorney Robert Sullivan used the words "stone wall" to indicate what he said he was up against Friday afternoon in the investigation of the stabbing death of Mary Kay Heese, 17.

Miss Heese's body was found southeast of town early Wednesday.

"We just have no reason to think we're going to come up with anything very soon," said Sullivan. "There's just not too much we can do right now."

Asked if he had any indication whether Miss Heese's assailant might have been a local person or someone from out of town, Sullivan said that he could only speculate that it would be "more plausible" to think she'd have gotten into a car with someone she knew rather than with a stranger. But, asked if by that he meant to indicate that he had solid evidence Miss Heese had entered someone's car he said no — "there's no use fooling anybody, we just don't know who did it."

Plaster Casts

Previously Sullivan had referred to having plaster casts of auto tread marks from near the scene where the body was found.

Sullivan did say Friday that he believed it was a man or boy who committed the act — but indicated he had no real evidence to that effect.

Sullivan said that he has at no time since the body was found felt "close" to the identification of the assailant. "We'll keep talking to people until we solve the case, if we ever do," he said. Asked if by that he meant that he felt it looked hopeless at present however, he replied "we just aren't aimed in any direction now."

Swanson's Name Enters Governor Speculation

By the Associated Press

The name of Lincoln Sen. William F. Swanson has been injected into speculation on possible Republican candidates for governor next year.

Sen. Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff lofted a trial balloon in an address to a meeting of the Nebraska professional chapter of Sigma Delta Chi, national journalism fraternity.

Carpenter said he and others believe the 46-year-old Lincoln real estate man, who entered the Unicameral in 1967, would make an ideal candidate.

Elaborating in an interview Friday, Carpenter said he had not discussed the matter with Swanson said "This is only my idea, but it represents the viewpoint of other senators, too."

"Some of us feel no governor should be elected unless he comes from this Legislature and knows how we work and think," Carpenter said. "The conflict between the legislative and executive branches of government is against the public interest."

Swanson brushed aside the suggestion.

"Carpenter is a very good friend of mine and I am grateful for the expression of confidence by him," Swanson said. "But he and I have not discussed the matter and I have never even considered such a thing."

Quarter Horse Show Scheduled For Next Month

The University of Nebraska Block and Bridle Club's 14th annual Quarter Horse Show will be held April 24 and 25 in conjunction with the Nebraska Intercollegiate Rodeo.

The Quarter Horse Show will be held at the State Fair Grounds Coliseum here. The rodeo is sponsored by the NU Rodeo Association and performances will be April 25-26, also at the coliseum.

The show is one of the largest approved Quarter Horse Shows in Nebraska, with 24 classes of competition.

Completed mail entries must be received in Lincoln by noon Wednesday, April 23, before a horse can be entered in the contest. Proof of registration is required and each post entry will be assessed an additional dollar fee.

Halter classes for registered Quarter Horses only will include Stallions and Geldings on Thursday, April 24, at 1 p.m. and Mares Friday, at 9 a.m.

Performance classes will be held Thursday, April 24 at 4 p.m., for registered junior and senior cattle cutting.

The latest surface map shows a ridge of strong high pressure shoving into Nebraska and Iowa with the main center of the high over extreme North Dakota by noon Saturday and moving southeastward. A cold front well to the south of the two-state region will continue its slow southward movement.

Skies will be mostly partly cloudy in western Iowa and eastern Nebraska and elsewhere variably cloudy through Sunday. There is a chance of snow flurries through Saturday night mainly in western Nebraska. Elsewhere over the area there is only the chance for brief isolated snow flurries. Temperatures will not be quite so cold in most sections Saturday due to less wind velocity. It will be a little warmer Sunday.

Urban Renewal Passed

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

The Legislature Friday gave final 33-3 approval to a major urban renewal bill which permits Lincoln to undertake urban renewal without a vote of the people, and directs Omaha to launch a pilot project in South Omaha.

The measure, LB190, sponsored by Sen. Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff, will become law upon the signature of the governor.

Once that occurs, Omaha's City Council will have 15 days in which to veto the specific South Omaha project if it wishes.

And Lincoln's City Council would be free to launch either general urban renewal or a specific pilot project without first seeking approval from the electorate.

Only City

Lincoln is now the only city barred by state law from proceeding without such a vote.

Five of Lancaster County's senators voted to enact LB190. The sixth, John Knight of Lincoln, was absent.

The only votes cast against the bill were those of Sens. Clifton Batchelder and Richard Proud, both of Omaha, and Sen. Wayne Schreurs of Seward.

Seven members of Douglas County's 12-senator delegation voted for the measure.

Sens. Edward Danner and Florence Reynolds declined to vote at all, and Sen. Sam Klaver was absent.

New Ground

LB190 breaks new legislative ground by directing all cities to adopt a minimum standards housing ordinance by Jan. 1, as well as establishing the new concept of limited urban renewal.

The new concept permits a city to undertake one single specific limited pilot project if it so wishes.

In the case of Omaha, its South Omaha project, if not vetoed by the City Council, must be completed before any additional limited project could be authorized.

Urban Renewal Said Taken From Lincoln Voters' Hands

By TOM EKVALL
Star Staff Writer

State legislators took minimum housing as well as urban renewal out of the hands of the public when they approved the urban renewal bill (LB190) on Friday, according to Ralph Nelson, city corporation counsel.

An amendment tacked onto the bill during the month states "all cities and villages shall adopt a minimum standards housing ordinance not later than Jan. 1, 1970."

Both minimum housing and urban renewal have been rejected by Lincoln voters recently.

Nelson said that since the bill states cities must have a minimum housing code, voters no longer have the right to determine whether Lincoln will or will not have such a code.

He said his interpretation of the bill indicates that the city will have to adopt a new all-inclusive housing ordinance since the present ordinance is "legally invalid due to its having a 'grandfathers clause.'"

Nelson, who served as city attorney until stepping into his new position as legal advisor and lobbyist for the city, said a new ordinance would have to eliminate the provision in the present one that states only houses built after 1957 would be covered under the code.

Federal Aid Blocked

The lack of an all-inclusive minimum housing code has prevented the city from having its "workable pan for community improvement" approved by the federal Housing and Urban Development (HUD) Department.

The bill is expected to create a lively City Council election contest since several of the candidates have been leading opponents of urban renewal and minimum housing.

City officials voiced strong support for the newly passed urban renewal bill.

Mayor Schwartzkopf described the bill as "one of the most significant bills passed for the city of Lincoln in that it finds a solution to the urban problems particularly in the areas where there is urban decay."

He said he favors a limited urban renewal authority over a general type one in the first project that the city might undertake.

Councilman Lloyd Hinkley said he was extremely happy that the Unicameral is blessed with legislators who have educated themselves on urban problems and have seen fit to take action on the problems.

"It's nice to know the Legislature is not just rural oriented, but urban-rural oriented," Hinkley said.

Candidate Calls Bill 'Treacherous'

A candidate for the City Council has called the urban renewal bill, LB190, passed by the Legislature Friday, one of "treacherous methods."

Mrs. Elinor Brown said that the bill, which will permit Lincoln to undertake urban renewal without a vote of the people, is "fear-producing" to "thousands who voted it down in 1962 and indirectly spoke against it in the defeat of the minimum housing ordinance in 1967."

Candidate Urges Halfway House For Youngsters

A halfway house to help yongsters who have been in trouble was urged Friday by Harry "Pete" Peterson, a candidate for City Council.

Peterson said large sums of money are spent each year on adult alcoholics and rehabilitation of people who have run afoul of the law.

"We still do not do enough to develop a plan for the youth," he said.

Peterson said a halfway house would be especially helpful to the youngster who is being discharged from an institution.

"Placing him in this type of atmosphere before parole is granted or before he is ultimately released would get him away from institutional regimentation, but assure him close supervision and provide him wth freedom of expression in a family-type atmosphere," he said.

"There are many programs dedicated to youth but most of these programs — although sincere — are not reaching the depths they should," the candidate said.

Injunction Won't Affect Lincoln Public Schools

By LUCILLE HOWARD
Star Staff Writer

The injunction halting distribution of part of the state aid to education funds scheduled for payment to school districts April 1 will not adversely affect the cash flow of the Lincon Public Schools.

Associate Supt. Dr. Robert Den Hartog reported that the main problem for Lincoln will be a loss of income from investing the state aid money until it is needed for expenditures.

Lancaster District Judge William Hastings earlier this week halted distribution of $1.5 million of state aid funds at the request of the Omaha School District which is appealing a State Board of Education order.

Any subsequent judgement in Omaha's favor would be ineffective, the district claimed, if the $1,498,885 is distributed along with the other half of state aid funds yet to be distributed this year.

M. L. Christensen of the State Department of Education state aid office said that the new percentages for computing the amount of state aid to be distributed as well as the amounts have not yet been figured.

If Omaha wins its case, Lincoln will receive less state aid money than the $2.9 million it had previously estimated in the 1968-69 school budget receipts.

The Lincoln district will gain if the Omaha suburban school districts are successful in their suit filed in U.S. Federal District Court in Omaha, according to Den Hartog.

However, only about $1 million in state aid funds was withheld pending the outcome of the suit filed by Bellevue and Papillion. Those districts are contesting the loss of state aid due to receipt of federal aid to impacted areas. Bellevue requested that $500,000 be held back from the first payment last December, and Papillion asked that $50,000 be held.

One Family Finds Police 'A Swell Bunch Of Guys'

It's a pretty considerate world we live in, despite its occasional failures, in the eyes of the Ken Witt family of 3500 Frost Court.

Witt was awakened at 1 a.m. Thursday by a call from the Aurora, Ill., police department.

The officer in Aurora quickly assured Witt that there was nothing to be alarmed about.

Purpose of the call was to let the Witts know that their son, Ray, was an invited guest of the new Aurora jail for the evening.

Ray was en route to Lincoln for Easter vacation from Campion High School in Prairie du Chien, Wis. But he missed his Wednesday midnight connection at Aurora for a train into Lincoln.

When the depot closed, Ray set out for a nearby hotel but was stopped by a police cruiser car. After checking him out, the police recommended against any hotels in the area and offered overnight facilities at the new and modern jail.

"These are a swell bunch of guys," Ray told his father during the early morning call to Lincoln.

The following day, the police in Aurora gave Ray a ride back to the depot where he caught an 11 a.m. train for home.

"It sure shows there are still a lot of real nice people in the world," said Witt.

Representatives Of Peace Corps Are To Visit NU

Three Peace Corps representatives will be on the University of Nebraska's Lincoln campus March 31 through April 4.

They will operate an information booth in the Nebraska Union and will accept speaking invitations before classes and student or local groups.

Representating the corps will be Kathy Schneider, a graduate of Central Michigan University who taught geography and mathematics in Ethiopia; Mike Ditkowsky, a graduate of the University of Michigan who taught physical education in Venezuela, and Dianne Bojornson, a graduate of the University of Montana who worked in an adult literacy program in Colombia.

Council Hopeful Opposed To City Operating Buses

Lincoln City Council candidate James Tetherow said Friday local government should refrain from operating the bus service in Lincoln.

"The Lincoln City Lines should be granted whatever rate increase is necessary to operate at a profit and the public should be encouraged to utilize the public transportation facilities," Tetherow said.

He said greater use by the public of mass transit would help alleviate the problems of the city in the areas of traffic congestion, parking space, and street deterioration.

The candidate said he would also work toward improving conditions for police and firemen.

Tetherow said he favors salaries high enough to attract and retain these people.

Winter or summer — a substantial part of Peter Allman's spare time activities involve the word pool.

As a member of the East Hills swimming team, Peter has won a number of honors for his diving and swimming skills in local pools. And when the weather is bad, Peter often turns to a game of pool for entertainment.

A student at May Morley Elementary School in Lincoln, Peter maintains a healthy two plus grade average, plans to attend college some day and is already saving part of the profits from his paper route for future education expenses.

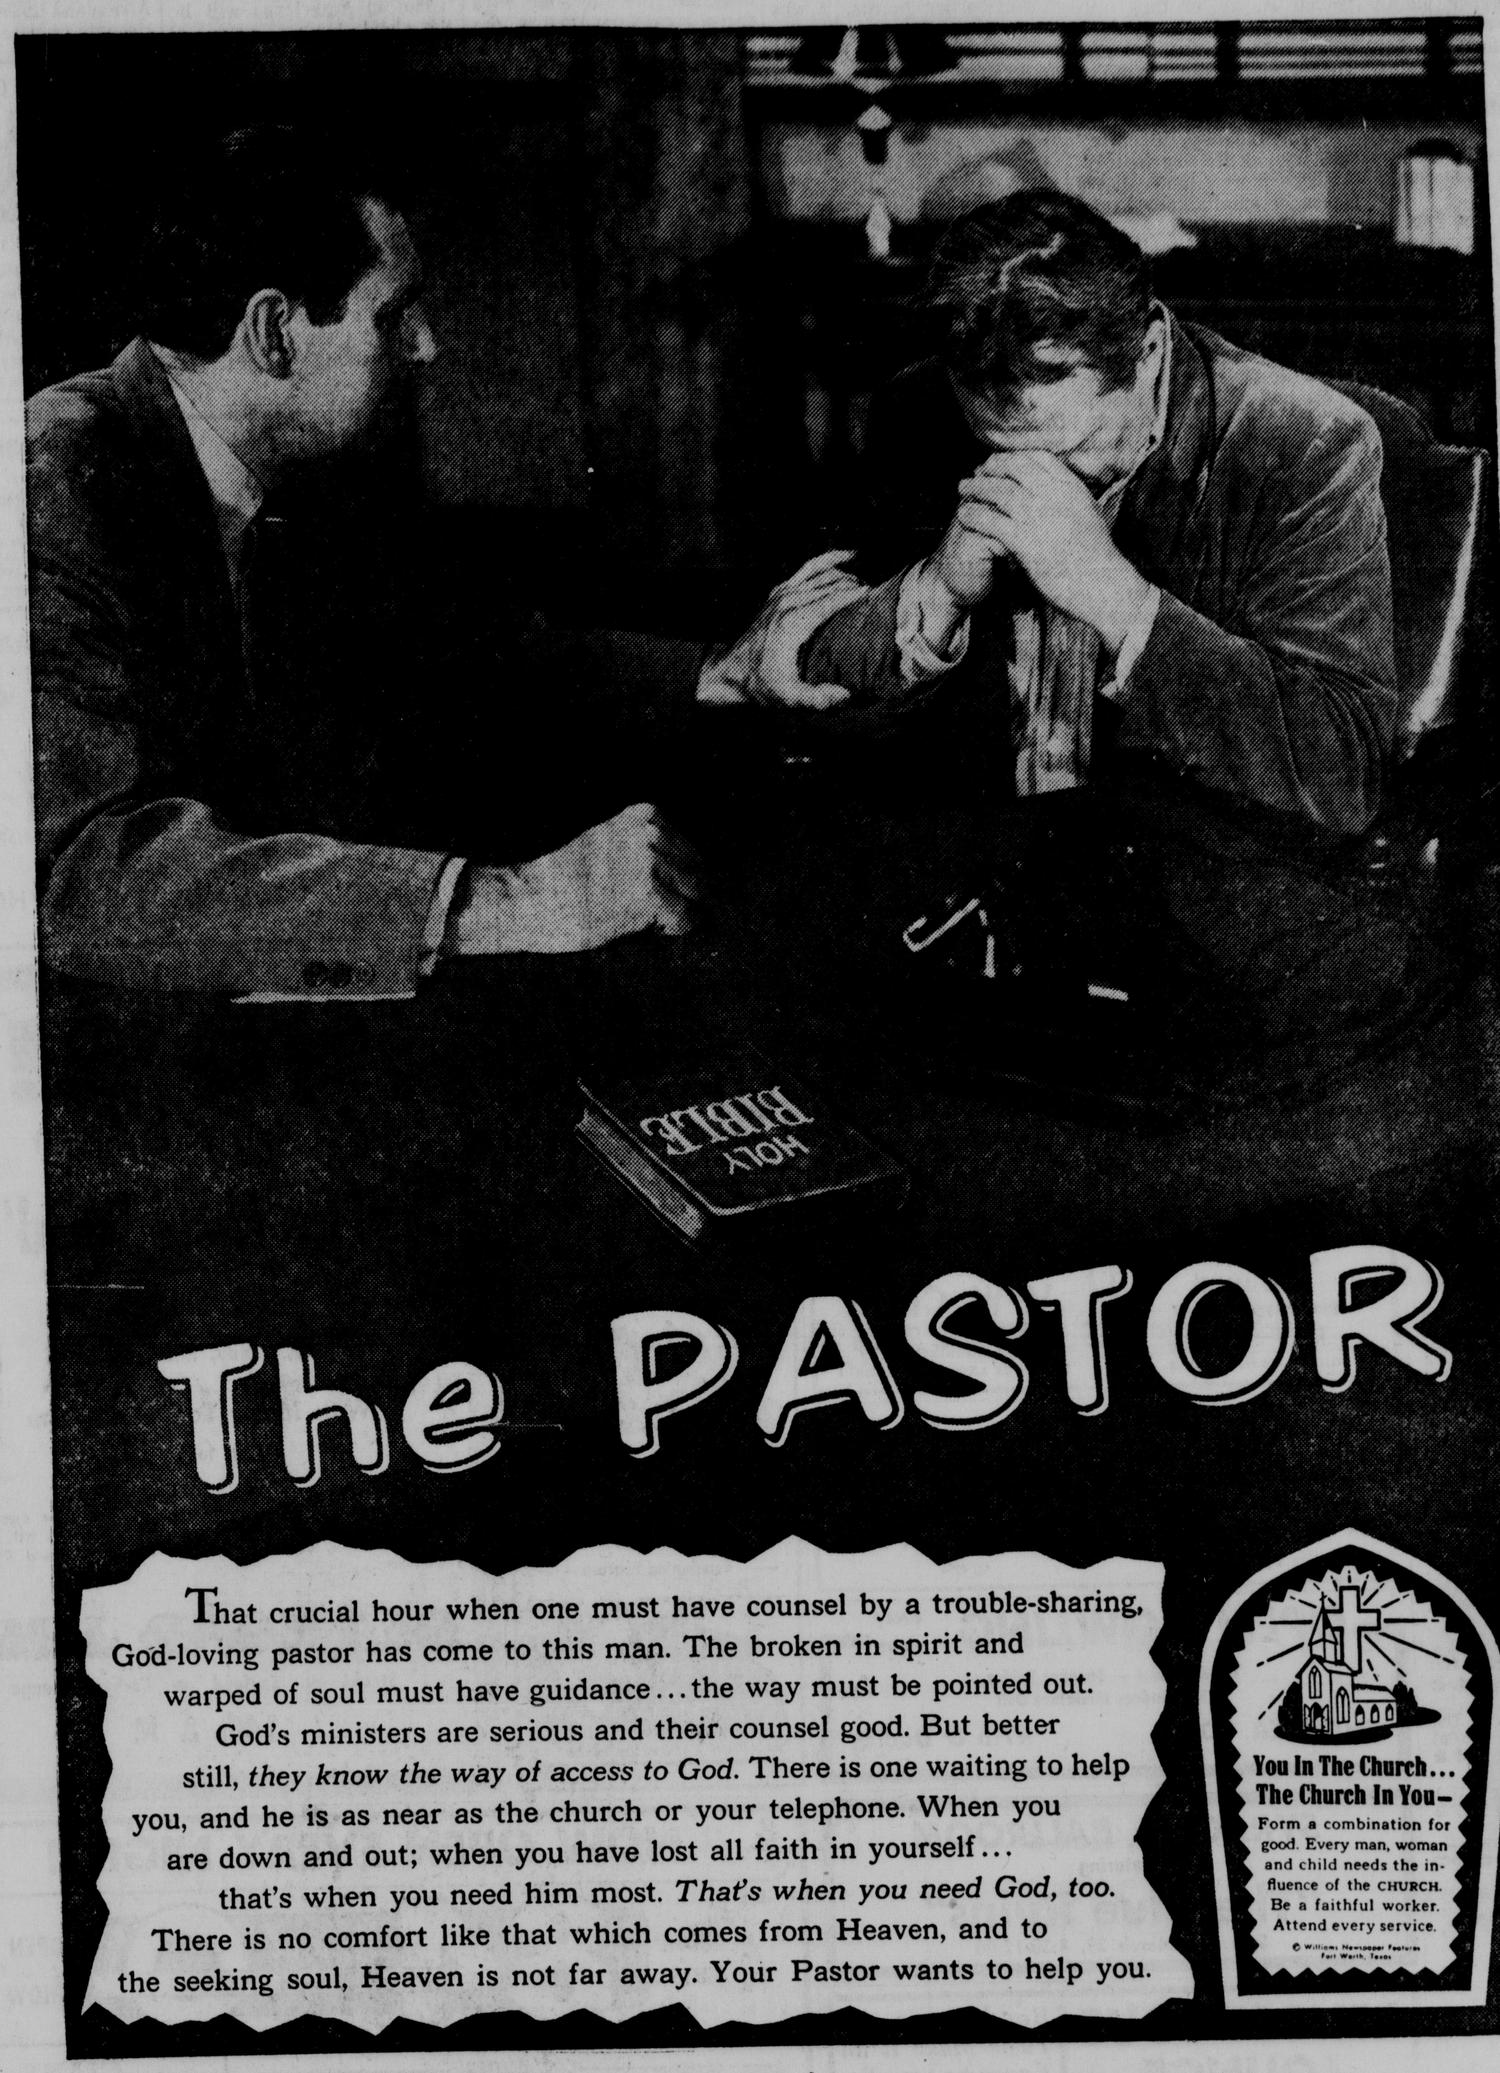

Peter inherited the Lincoln Star route from his brother and is keeping up the tradition for excellent service which his brother had established, according to his supervisor.

His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Allman, says the route has helped their son to "feel more at ease with people" besides providing him with valuable training for the future.

How to be a Christian on Saturday night.

Living in Both Worlds by Eileen Guder

It's easy to be a Christian on Sunday. But what about the rest of the week when "legal"—but not necessarily moral — pressures of the secular world confront us? This is the situation explored by Eileen Guder in her newest book — Living in Both Worlds. The Christian solutions she suggests are practical, workable, and thoroughly grounded in the Scripture. SHERIDAN TANK IN ACTION . . .

'Billion-Dollar Boo Boo' Helps Thwart Ambush

Saigon (AP) — U.S. infantry crushed an attempted North Vietnamese ambush northwest of Saigon Friday with the aid of the new Sheridan tanks that an American congressman has called unsuitable for war in South Vietnam.

The fighting broke out in the Ben Cui rubber plantation, 45 miles northwest of Saigon, and flamed all day, dying out only with the sinking of the sun.

U.S. headquarters said 46 enemy soldiers were killed. U.S. losses were given as three killed and six wounded.

'Billion-Dollar Boo Boo'

Rep. Samuel S. Stratton, D-N.Y., charged in Washington Tuesday that the Sheridan tank, introduced in Vietnam last month, had so many defects that it was unsuitable. He said that although the tank is for reconnaissance, it can be heard three miles away, that its exhaust system makes it an easy target and that these and other defects amount to a "billion-dollar boo boo."

U.S. officers agree there are defects but said they are being overcome and the tanks have increased combat capability.

Forty such 16-ton Sheridans along with armored personnel carriers of the U.S. 25th Infantry Division were escorting 120 trucks carrying ammunition and food Friday to the division's base at Tay Ninh. They ran into more than 200 North Vietnamese.

Sprung Too Soon

Apparently, the North Vietnamese sprang their ambush too soon because they opened up on the leading tanks. A lieutenant commanding the lead tank said he saw a North Vietnamese "only 10 feet away and we began shooting it out."

Another officer said: "We got there before they expected us. We felt they were not ready. Their ambush holes were not deep enough. They were still digging in."

The Sheridans opened up with their most feted weapons, deadly "Beehive" artillery shells each containing more than 10,000 pieces of small, dart-shaped shrapnel.

The officer said the Sheridans played a major role in smashing the ambush, but there was plenty of help. As the din of battle rose, calls came from other allied units to come to their aid.

"We had so many people wanting to get into the fight there wasn't room for them all," said Lt. Col. Robert S. McGowan, commander of the armored units.

In Friday's action, enemy rocket grenades knocked out a Sheridan tank and an armored personnel carrier.

The fighting in the plantation emphasized what has been plain all week, that the enemy is still in force on the approaches to Saigon despite allied efforts to dislodge them with big sweeps.

Another indication that the enemy offensive is not spent was the disclosure that 13 U.S. helicopters were shot down in the past week.

English Plant Set

London (UPI) — Imperial Chemical Industries, Ltd., will build a 70,000-ton a year polyvinyl chloride plant at Runcorn, England.

NASA Offered Dog

Buenos Aires, Argentina (AP) — Julio Tondini has offered to send his boxer dog, Adan, on the first flight to the moon. In a letter to the U.S. National Aeronautics and Space Administration, he said his dog's behavior aboard aircraft "is better than that of many pilots."

Sino-Soviet Fighting Told

Moscow (UPI) — Communist Chinese troops along the Ussuri River frontier have launched new attacks on Soviet border guards, it was reported Friday.

The Communist Party newspaper Pravda, in a dispatch from its military correspondent on the scene, also said the Chinese were building a military post a short distance from Damansky Island, scene of two bloody battles earlier this month.

The report by Pravda correspondent Col. Sergei Borzenko was the first mention of new incidents along the border area in nine days. He said the Chinese threw "several mortars on Damansky" and a Chinese patrol "penetrated on the island." No date was given.

"They were stopped by our fire," he said.

Earthquake Hits Western Turkey

Istanbul (UPI) — An earthquake rolled across western Turkey early Friday, killing scores of persons and destroying houses, factories and mosques in the predawn darkness, and isolating hundreds of villages.

Preliminary reports put the death toll at 50. Authorities said the figure was likely to rise.

The quake, the worst to hit Turkey in nearly two years, followed days of minor tremors felt along an ages-old fault line running throughout the country.

Pope Names 33 New Cardinals; More Grass Roots Power Seen

Vatican City (AP) — Pope Paul VI appointed 33 new cardinals Friday in a move regarded as a shift of some Roman Catholic Church powers from Vatican headquarters to the grass roots.

Among the new princes of the church are four Americans, bringing U.S. representation in the Sacred College to an all time high of 10.

When the cardinals-designate are invested at a secret consistory April 28, the college also will reach a new high — 134 members.

For Diocesan Prestige

The pontiff's selections were seen as a major move to increase the prestige of diocesan bishops around the world and to give developing nations a more prominent place in the highest council of Roman Catholicism.

The new American cardinals are Archbishops Terence Cooke of New York, John Dearden of Detroit, John Carberry of St. Louis and Bishop John Wright of Pittsburgh.

Bishop Wright told a news conference in Pittsburgh, "The identification with Rome means a lot to me. It means civilization itself."

Bishop Wright will take a post in the Vatican Curia and probably leave his bishop's seat. He will be the only American in the Church's central administration.

His specific post was not announced. but it was speculated that he might be named to head the new theological commission formed by the Pope.

The elevation of four Americans to the purple underlined the growth of the Roman Catholic Church in the United States which 61 years ago was still considered a missionary land by the Vatican.

The 10 Americans will be the third largest group of cardinals in the expanded Sacred College, behind France with 11 and Italy with 41.

In addition, the pontiff reserved the names of two other prelates "in pectore," meaning in his heart or secret. They will become cardinals when and if the Pope reveals their names and they are invested.

Vatican observers speculated the two are prelates living in Eastern Europe.

The Italian proportion of cardinals will drop from 32.6% to 30.5%.

The 33 new cardinals come from 19 countries.

Eight of the new cardinals are Italians — equally divided between Vatican diplomats and diocesan bishops.

Madagascar, New Zealand and the Congo are getting their first cardinals and other developing nations in Asia, Africa and Latin America are strongly represented.

Land Condemnation For Indian Cave State Park Upheld

By Associated Press

The State Supreme Court gave its blessing Friday to the Game Commission's condemnation for park purposes of 46 acres of land owned by Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Duerfeldt of Falls City.

The court held to be constitutional the 1967 act which authorized the Game Commission to acquire the property by eminent domain for purposes of developing Indian Cave State Park in southeastern Nebraska.

The Duerfeldt tract includes the cave which gives the park its name.

The Supreme Court opinion affirmed the judgment of the Lancaster County District Court in dismissing the petition of the Duerfeldts for an injunction against the commission.

The Duerfeldts contended chiefly that the Game Commission is not a legal entity which may be clothed with the power of eminent domain; that the title to the 1967 authorization bill, LB560, was defective; that the legislative act represented special or local legislation prohibited by the constitution; that the act was void for failing to establish standards for the exercise of eminent domain, and that the governor's consent to the acquisition of the land had not been obtained.

Each of these challenges was rejected by the Supreme Court.

The unanimous opinion held that the Game Commission "is a department of state government having an actual legal existence and is a legal entity."

The court said in effect that the title of a bill need not make specific reference to every provision of the bill.

The court said there is no constitutional prohibition against the Legislature requiring that its consent first be obtained before eminent domain is exercised on a particular piece of property, and LB560 properly authorized the taking of specified properties.

Tax Levied For MUD Ruled Legal

By Associated Press

The State Supreme Court held Friday that a one-half mill "hydrant tax" levied on behalf of Omaha's Metropolitan Utilities District is not a state tax and does not contravene the constitution.

The opinion reversed the Douglas County District Court which had held that the tax was in effect levied by the state, for a state purpose, and thereby violated the constitutional provision wihch says the state may not levy a property tax for state purposes.

The challenging suit was brought by R-R Realty Co. on behalf of itself and others in its class.

The realty company contended that because the Legislature imposed upon the city and county the obligation to levy the tax for fire protection purposes, the tax was levied by the Legislature.

But the Supreme Court opinion written by Judge Hale McCown held that "the levy of a property tax by a local governmental unit should not be treated as a state levy for state purposes merely because the Legislature has authorized or required the local governmental unit to make the levy. Neither should the fact that the tax is for a 'governmental' purpose make it automatically for state purposes rather than local."

In other opinions Friday, the court:

—Reversed the Hall County District Court and ordered a new trial of a suit brought by Rockland Chemical Co., Inc., against F & F Manufacturing, Inc., for payment for goods sold and delivered. The question turned on whether certain unsigned depositions taken in the state of New Jersey were admissible in evidence. The court held that signature is not mandatory but that Nebraska law sets out what shall be done to make depositions admissible when there is no signature, and these requirements had not been met.

—Upheld the Frontier County District Court in confirming an upset bid following a judicial sale in a partition suit. At the March 11, 1968 sale, Donald H. Nielsen entered a bid of $150,500 for the property being sold. Ten days later a bid of $160,500 was entered by a combine of six persons, and the district court ordered the bidding reopened. The higher bid was finally accepted. The Supreme Court said that the discretion to be exercised in such cases is broad, and that in this case the court was justified in reopening the bidding.

—Upheld the Douglas County District Court in dismissing a suit brought by David L. Feldman, 5113 Capitol Ave., Omaha, asking the court to declare void a city ordinance vacating a part of Capitol Ave. between 50th and 51st Sts.

LIFE BEGINS AT FORTY:

Wife Can't Forgive In-Laws' Treatment

By ROBERT PETERSON

Q. — "You say we should forgive and forget. But my wife and I can't forgive my mother and sister the way they treated us the first year of our marriage. They didn't like my wife so they snubbed and ignored us. They lived nearby but never invited us over or accepted an invitation to our house. Mom had Dad's insurance money and some property of her own but never gave us a cent. Now things have changed. We've done well financially, but Mom has run out of money and Sis has Parkinson's disease. Now they call and plead with us to come see them or send money so they won't have to go on welfare. But the absolutely evil way they treated us looms so great in our minds we can't forgive or forget. Do you blame us?"

A. — It's the hardest thing in the world to forgive folks who have been deliberately malicious. But it's also difficult and painful to keep old wounds raw and festering. The fact that you're asking my advice suggests you're leaning in the direction of forgiveness. Evil deeds deserve punishment, but maybe your mother and sister have been punished enough. If they are contrite for past action, the four of you should stop sparring and try sampling the satisfactions of family harmony.

Q. — "There's a retired football coach up the street who's a health nut and runs around the block two or three times a day in shorts and sweatshirt labeled "Tarzan." He's a widower old enough to be my father, and is always asking me to go jogging with him in the park. I thought I was the apple of his eye until I learned he pulls this on every widow and old maid he meets who's under 90. How do you explain a character like this?"

A. — Maybe he just likes exercise and girls. Actually he may not be as nutty as you assume. Anyone with the good sense to exercise daily has pretty sound mental equipment. And while his romantic approach is a bit novel and direct, you can't accuse him of beating around the bush. Maybe you should join him for jogging one day and see what happens. Tarzan could turn out to be the catch of the year.

Q. — "That was a silly column you wrote saying Americans shouldn't retire to faraway paradises such as Fiji or Tahiti because they'd be lonely and bored. I'm a city boy but when I get enough moola stashed away to give me an income of $200 monthly for life, I'm going off to some tropical paradise and you'll never hear from me again."

A. — Power to you. But habit is a firm master. If you're accustomed to being around people like yourself, and if you enjoy the comforts and stimulation of urban living, the chances are permanent pleasure from palmy paradises in the Pacific are pretty slim.

If you would like a booklet, "Retiring to Arizona," write to Robert Peterson, c/o Dispatch Letter Service, 25 W. 45th St., New York, N.Y. 10036, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope and 10 cents to cover handling costs.

Tiemann Outlines Plan For Regional Centers

By VIRGIL FALLOON
Star Staff Writer

Gov. Norbert T. Tiemann said Friday his office hopes to present a plan with alternatives for "regional centers" in state government in the near future to the Legislature.

Tiemann said the number of centers has not been determined yet, but "any plan that is developed would be a continuing process."

Tiemann told a news conference that "ideally" various offices of state agencies would be located in a "kind of campus complex" at locations over the state.

Economic Plan

"Ideally," he said, "government office buildings should be grouped together for efficiency and public convenience."

Tiemann cited "proliferation" of state agency offices in Norfolk as an example of what should be avoided in regional center planning.

As much as possible, Tiemann said this principle would also apply to Lincoln, where agencies have constructed office building away from the Capitol or are renting outside quarters.

Letter Campaign

The governor reported some 1,000 letters from Omaha parochial school children in support of state aid to parochial schools have been received by his office.

"A letter campaign is not effective so far as I'm concerned," the governor said. "Obviously, this is a mechanical thing—teachers are telling students to write letters."

Tiemann said Nebraska needs a "good, permanent-type air pollution control act," but would oppose an industry-dominated controlling agency.

"Industry should be represented on an advisory body," Tiemann said, "but should not dominate the controlling agency."

Bills Said Boost To Good Program For Retarded

William G. Wills, president of the Nebraska Association for Retarded Children, said Friday that Nebraska is on the threshold of a breakthrough to a much more fruitful program for the mentally retarded.

Passage of six key bills now before the Legislature will continue to lay the groundwork for a state program for mentally retarded which all Nebraskans can take pride in, Wills said. The key bills, he said, are LB 172, 286, 547, 604, 728, and 855.

ABM Decision Endorsed

Washington — Rep. Robert Denney endorsed President Nixon's decision to construct a modified anti-ballistic missile system as "a solid defense network" which the nation can afford.

"I believe it will provide us with as complete a defense as the 'thick shield' proposal without being needlessly expensive," the First District Republican congressman said in a radio interview.

"By locating our missile sites away from major cities, I believe we will make clear to the Soviets that our system is strictly designed to defend our defense forces — not to change our military balance of power.

"But the system is not so drastic as to endanger future disarmament talks with the Soviet Union," Denney said.

Chapel Ceremony

The chapel of Westminster Presbyterian Church was appointed with white pompon chrysanthemums and yellow roses for the marriage of Miss Kathryn Virginia Ewing of Lincoln, daughter of Mrs. Ben Edward Ewing of Kearney, to Thomas Dean Dermyer, son of Mrs. Donald Dermyer, on Friday afternoon, March 28. Dr. Robert Palmer read the lines of the service at 3 o'clock.

Wearing Empire frocks of chiffon and silk in the maize tone were Mrs. James Allen Hall of Lancaster, Pa., who was her sister's matron of honor, and the bridesmatron, Mrs. Jack Portenier.

Serving as best man was Donald James Dermyer of Overland Park., Kan., and the groomsman was Lt. William Dermyer of Kaneohe, Hawaii. Seating the guests were Stanford Ewing and Jeffrey Ewing, Kearney, and Daniel Dermyer.

The bride selected a gown of taffeta faille in antique white. Petite ruffling of Alencon lace edged the high throatline and cuffed the long, fitted sleeves, and the princess lines were emphasized by an appliqued panel of the lace extending to the hem of the slender skirt, which was complemented by an aisle-wide court train. Her train-length veil of silk illusion was held by a lace crown, and she carried a crescent of white sweetheart roses.

Mr. and Mrs. Dermyer, both of whom will receive their degrees this spring from the University of Nebraska, will make their home in Lincoln. The bride is a member of Delta Gamma sorority, and Mr. Dermyer's fraternity is Phi Delta Theta.

Weather No Problem In Suburbia

Under normal circumstances the arrival of April next Tuesday would be greeted with open arms. But there hasn't been a normal circumstance around since way last year. And besides, someone always is quoting from the Farmer's Almanac which makes dire predictions for April in the midwest.

Be that as it may, an April snowstorm could not stop suburban activity for long — there is just too much going on. It might, however, hinder the arrival of some guests who are expected in the Eastridge neighborhood next week.

Mr. and Mrs. Douglas E. Brogden will be host and hostess to Tuesday's arriving guests, who are Mrs. Brogden's brother and sister-in-law and two of their children. Mr. and Mrs. Russell Muth and their youngsters, Tracy and Rusty, make their home at present in London, England. The fifth member of the family, Blair, passed up the visit to the States for a tour of Russia with her school.

Mr. and Mrs. Muth, Tracy, and Rusty will be in Lincoln through Saturday, April 5, when they will fly to New York for a visit before returning to London.

Two young Eastridge residents are celebrating their sixth birthdays today, although neither of their brithdays fall on March 29.

The date was chosen as a convenient middle ground between the March 25 brithdate of Miss Mickey Conealy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Connealy of 814 Lyncrest Dr., and the April 1 birthday anniversary of Miss Melissa Whitworth, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Whitworth of 735 Mulder Dr.

Today's birthday party with Mrs. Connealy and Mrs. Whitworth co-hostesses, will be at the Connealy home. Helping Melissa and Mickey celebrate will be Amy McVicker, Christlyn Splichal, Shari Fricke, Carrie Borland, Laura Berg, Colette Thrall, Barbie Dunklau, Gretchen Whitworth, Kim Dotson, Tammy Gade, Pam Mulder, Chele Haessler, and Christine and Laura Rodeck.

Many families with school-age youngsters are going to take advantage of the upcoming spring vacation for a short trip to one spot or another, but when we asked Mrs. Glen Hansel what plans they might be making for the vacation, she told us "none." It seems that the younger members of the family decided that a new canine would be more fun than a trip — so a toy poodle pup arrived Friday morning, much to the delight of the children and the family chihuahua.

Attendants

Miss Patricia Jane Winterhalter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Winterhalter, is announcing the members of her bridal party for her marriage to Donald Jirsa, son of Mr. and Mrs. Otis Jirsa of Crete, which will be an event of Friday, April 11.

For the 8 o'clock evening ceremony, which will be solemnized at Blessed Sacrament Church, Miss Winterhalter has chosen Mrs. E. V. Batten as her matron of honor. Her bridesmaids will be Miss Peggy Partington and Miss Julie Darnell, and the junior bridesmaid will be Miss Kelly Clark.

Dr. James Jirsa of Houston, Tex., will serve his brother as best man, and seating the guests will be Gene Wissenburg of Newman Grove, and Gary Odvody. The groomsmen will be the bride-elect's brother, Michael Winterhalter of Cleveland, Ohio, and Dean Beck, and attending Mr. Jirsa as junior groomsman will be Tiny Skutchan, Crete.

In courtesy to their son and Miss Winterhalter, Mr. and Mrs. Otis Jirsa of Crete will be host and hostess at dinner on Thursday evening, April 10, in Crete. The guests will include members of the family and bridal party.

Miss Winterhalter also will be honored at luncheon Tuesday, April 8, when Mrs. George Lewis Jr., and her daughter, Miss Gentry Lewis, will be hostesses at the Lincoln Country Club.

On Sunday, March 23, the bride-elect was presented a miscellaneous shower at a party given by Mrs. Lee Partington and her daughter, Miss Peggy Partington, at their home. Also included among recent courtesies for Miss Winterhalter was the gadget shower given by a group of coemployes of the bride-to-be at the home of Mrs. Henry Goebel. Assisting Mrs. Goebel as hostesses were Mrs. Mary Ann Dell and Mrs. Elsie Sheehy.

The bride-to-be is a student at the University of Nebraska, from which Mr. Jirsa received his degree.

Courtesy Honors April Bride-Elect

Entertaining in courtesy to a popular bride-elect of the spring season on Thursday evening was Mrs. Kenneth Pohlman, who honored Miss Susan Elizabeth Wise at an informal party held at her home.

Miss Wise, who will become the bride of Rodney Stall on Saturday, April 5, was presented a shower of early American accessories for her new home.

A senior coed at the University of Nebraska, Miss Wise is a member of Alpha Phi. Her fiance, who is a member of Sigma Chi fraternity, is a graduate of the university.

Opening lead — eight of clubs.

Good dummy play consists mostly of figuring out the cards held by each defender and playing accordingly. Seldom would you have trouble making the maximum number of tricks if you could see the opposing cards as well as your own.

In many deals the defenders' bids or early plays are so illuminating that you can in effect, play as though their cards were visibly exposed. Here is an illustration from a duplicate tournament where a spectacular play by South resulted in his making six hearts.

West led a club. Declarer won with the ace, drew three rounds of trumps ending in his hand, and continued with a diamond. East took the ace and returned the king of clubs, which declarer ruffed.

Spurning the spade finesse, declarer led the ace of spades, felling West's king, and easily made the rest of the tricks to bring home the slam.

At first blush it does seem odd for declarer to rely on catching the king with the ace instead of relying on a simple finesse to trap the king.

But South had the best possible reason for bypassing the finesse: he knew that the finesse, if attempted, would fail.

East had opened with a preemptive bid of four clubs (showing probably a seven-card suit and a relatively weak hand), and during the play he had shown up with the ace of diamonds as well as a void in hearts.

It was inconceivable that East would have preempted with his hand if it had also contained the guarded king of spades — in such case he would surely have opened with one club rather than four.

With the spade finesse therefore marked to lose, South decided to rely instead on the remote chance of finding West with the singleton king. Accordingly he led the ace and was exceptionally well rewarded for his unusual play.

Abby: two lessons to learn

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I have an 8-year-old son who comes home crying nearly every day. Somebody "hit" him. I tell him he should hit them back, but he says he doesn't like to fight.

I have talked to other mothers on the block, and they say a boy has to learn how to protect himself, and if he does, the other boys won't bully him so much.

I am not crazy about the idea of my kid getting beat up all the time, so I tell him to stay by himself. He doesn't listen to me. He goes where the other kids are, knowing he can't get along with them and is going to end up getting hit and crying. So what is your opinion, Abby?

HIS MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: I think every boy should learn how to defend himself, but yours may also have to learn how to get along better with the other kids.

DEAR ABBY: A cousin of mine made the mistake of jotting a footnote on her Christmas card to the effect that they "miss their two children who are away at college this year." My husband is the world's cagiest free-loader, and he immediately figured that they had some spare room, so we could go there for our vacation!

I can just see the role I am going to have to play to compensate for the free rooms. I'm sure my cousin wouldn't expect me to do all the cooking and housework, but what woman can move in on two people and not offer to do some work?

We have an 8-room house and, frankly, I'd like to get away from household chores on my vacation.

What do you suggest?
JUST THE HOUSEKEEPER

DEAR JUST: If you let your husband rope you into this kind of a "vacation" — you'll deserve it.

DEAR ABBY: I hope this doesn't sound like I am bragging, because I'm not.

I was married when I was 16, and now, 19 years later, we have as happy a home as anyone could find anywhere.

These are some of the things I've done to make it so:

In the morning I wake my husband with a cup of fresh coffee and the morning paper. I've done this for years, but he always thanks me as though it is the first time.

When he comes home in the evening, I again have fresh coffee made and the afternoon paper. Regardless of what they are doing, the children always run to the door to greet him.

Before he gets home I make sure I have a fresh dress on, and that my face is nicely made-up, my hair combed, and when he comes in I leave all my problems of the day until he has had his dinner and had time to relax. And then I only bring them up if they are important.

Finally, after our evening meal, we read some passages of the Bible together and pray as a family.

When so many marriages are going on the rocks I simply offer these things as suggestions for a happy home.

Weatherman Throwing Curves At Prep Baseballers

By VIRGIL PARKER
Prep Sports Writer

Same song, second verse. Earlier in the week the city's high school track coaches were asked about the prospects for this spring's cinder season. "Are you kidding," they answered in unison. "What spring?"

Now the same questions have been posed to the Capital City baseball coaches about the diamond sport. "What are those track guys hollering about, the ball-bat bosses answered. "They can always find someplace to run. But first of all, we can't play on a sea of mud, and secondly, after a boy puts on 26 sweatshirts to protect his arm muscles you can't even tell if he can throw."

If the already short diamond season ever gets underway, it ought to produce some interesting baseball. Each school is limited to not more than 12 games, and weather and field condition postponments may bunch them all in the final two weeks of the campaign.

Southeast coach Charlie Gordon says he needs a crying towel, but the others, with a lot of returning veterans on hand, are looking for better things.

Gordon, who saw his shortstop Lee Groteluesheh and catcher Roger Nelson finish their prep school careers and immediately sign professional contracts, is faced with filling a lot of other equally important holes.

"I only have four returning lettermen," he says, "and Bob Schemmel is going to have a leg operation next week, so I'll be down to three."

Bob McIntyre, Jim Johnson and Roger Noxon are the trio, and Gordon adds, "not a pitcher in the bunch."

The Knights mentor said, "We'll just start with the reserves from a year ago. Our outfield looks to be our strong point." He jokingly added that if he doesn't come up with some pitching that outfield might be in for quite a workout.

Lincoln High, which qualified for the state tournament from this district last spring, has front line hurler Jay Weyers back, along with first baseman Gary Worster, shortstop Mike Brumm and center fielder Mike Shea.

Coach Buford Grosscup has four other lettermen on hand, plus Steve Holroyd, who played regularly for the summer Legion team. A tennis standout, Holyroyd is available since tennis moved to a fall sport.

"But where we expect to get some real help," Grosscup says, "is from an undefeated reserve team. Nobody has any spot cinched, for those kids will be up making a scrap for a position too."

The most enthusiastic, despite the bad weather, is East High coach Rudy Stoehr. The Spartans fielded a sophomore dominated club in their first year last spring. Stoehr has a first string regular back for every position.

"If pitching comes along, we ghta be tough," he admits, ut then the rest are going be pretty darn good too."

He says expects "four or five of oregulars to be hitting the l pretty well." East will opwith Scott Levey behind e plate, Stan Hegner at t, with Ross Stephenson, vin Gemmel and Kent May completing the infield, Jeff Patterson, Jeff Gadnd Dave Loos in the outfiel

Milan Steul Barry Blue, Tom Contrer Steve Gans and Barry Alhams form a five-man pitch corps.

Northeast ach LeRoy Seng, who says Rockets go on as a unit win the local summer Legichampionship as the Optimist team, says he has two major holes to plug.

"Catching and third base are my main concern," Seng admits. "Maury Damkroger at first, Dan Cook at second and shortstop Tom Novak were all regulars last year."

Dick Cades, Jim Starita and Bob Dean gives the Rockets a solid pitching staff. "Cades might play in the outfield when he's not pitching," Seng adds, "with Jim Smith and Craig Tische likely to join him."

Mike Karle, who played outfield for the Optimists is out and may claim one of those spots, the coach says.

"Reed Stephenson played the infield for the Optimists," Seng says, "and may get that third base job, while Bill Biggs and Randy Draper are my top catching prospects."

Pius X coach John Rotter says that he expects his infield to be pretty solid and his front line battery able to hold its own with the best.

"Gary Walker is bigger and stronger this year," Rotter feels, "and I'm looking for some real good things from his pitching. John Louden, our catcher, is big and tough, and he works hard."

Jack Flaherty is Walker's backup man on the mound, with Dennis Butler, Louie Sheridan, Dennis Shibata and Brad Schmidt the main infield prospects.

Pat Neal and Dan McGovern are another pair who Rotter says will certainly see plenty of action.

LEW GOING TO BUCKS?

UCLA Great's Mind Made Up

. . . INTERVIEW REVEALS

New York (AP) — Lew Alcindor, possibly the most sought after college basketball player in history, has decided to sign with the Milwaukee Bucks of the National Basketball Association, he disclosed Friday night in an interview on a New York radio station.

"I had to weigh two decisions, the ABA American Basketball Association and the NBA, and the NBA seemed most solid and sound," Alcindor told sports announcer Chip Cipola last Tuesday in a taped interview made public Friday night.

Alcindor, the 7-foot-1½ three-time All-American from UCLA, did not reveal the terms of the contract, which was rumored to be a multi-year pact approaching $1 million.

"My decision was based mainly on the fact that it was the best situation for me financially," he said.

"It would have been a lot easier playing in New York, all things being the same. But as it was things were not the same."

The Bucks, who finished last in the Eastern Division of the NBA, won top draft rights to Alcindor in a flip of a coin with Phoenix, the last place team in the Western Division. The Bucks were competing for the giant center with the New York Nets, who were given the No. 1 draft rights in the ABA. Alcindor is a native of New York.

Possibly the greatest bidding war in the history of sports had been expected between the two pro basketball teams for the services of Alcindor, but the announcement apparently put a quick end to it.

Alcindor completed his college career on last Saturday by leading UCLA to an unprecedented third consecutive National Collegiate Athletic Association championship.

Cipola said Alcindor, on advice from his lawyers, told each team to make their best offer and the Bucks made the better financial offer. He said the Nets the said they thought they could come up with more money if given time to get back to the rest of the ABA teams, but Alcindor said his decision would be made on the basis offers by each team.

The ABA had been basing a great deal of its future on the hope that it could sign Alcindor, certain to be a tremendous drawing card in either the newly-established ABA or the NBA. He also is expected to make a winning of any team he joins.

In Milwaukee, General Manager John Erickson of the Bucks said remarks Friday night by Lew Alcindor about his intending to sign with the National Basketball Association club were the first confirmation of the UCLA star's intentions.

"If Lew said that, then that's what he means because he is a man of his word," Erickson said when told of remarks Alcindor made in New York.

"We have had nothing but pleasant, agreeable talks with Lew, but no contract has been signed," Erickson said. "If he says he is going to join us, he wouldn't go back on his decision."

"Naturally we are delighted to hear," Erickson added. "I'm afraid I can't say anything further until we talk some more with him."

JUST BREAKS OF THE GAME

For 14-year-old Dave Sgrignoli of Harrisburg, Pa., basketball seems to be the root of all troubles — at least his current ones. Last month while leaping for a rebound in a junior high basketball game, he was accidentally bumped and fell to the floor, fracturing a bone in both arms. Three weeks later he was at it again, shooting baskets despite having both arms in casts. This time he went up for a shot and landed in a hole in the ground, breaking a bone in his left foot. Bet he won't play for a while now.

Whitworth's 68 Leads Malabar

Port Malabar, Fla. (AP) — Kathy Whitworth, lady golf's leading money winner for four straight years, fired a 68 Friday to grab the first-round lead in the $17,500 Port Malabar Invitational Golf tournament.

Miss Whitworth's nines of 37-31 were good for a four-stroke lead over Sandra Palmer, Mary Mills and Sandra Spuzich, who logjammed in the second spot with 72s.

Czechs Revel After Victory Over Soviets

Prague (UPI) — Thousands of Czechoslovaks burst into the streets of Prague Friday night in a fiery frenzy of celebration for the nation's 4-3 victory over the Soviet Union in the semi-finals of the world hockey championships.

Most of the celebrants converged on Wenceslas Square, where they waved burning brooms and newspapers, chanted "For August! For August! For August!" and demolished the offices of the Soviet Airline Aeroflot.

The Soviet-led invasion of Czechoslovakia took place last August, and Soviet occupation troops are still stationed in the country.

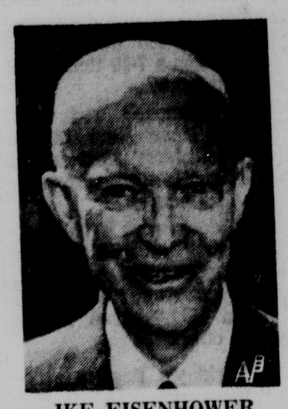

The Czechoslovakian national hockey team defeated the defending champion Soviet Union for the second time in the tournament at Stockholm Friday and next will play Sweden for the title. The game was broadcast and telecast live throughout Czechoslovakia.

Sports World To Honor Ike

. . . MEMORIAL SERVICES SET

By Associated Press

The sports world mourned the death of former President Dwight D. Eisenhower Friday and planned to pay tribute to the fallen soldier-statesman, a one time standout athlete, in a series of weekend ceremonies.

IKE EISENHOWER

Baseball Commissioner Bowie J. Kuhn directed the 24 major league clubs to conduct memorial services for Eisenhower, who died shortly after noon on Friday and ordered that no exhibition game be started Monday until one hour after the completion of fuenral services in Washington.

The American Basketball Association announced that three league games scheduled Monday night would be postponed to honor the memory of the former president. National Basketball Association President J. Walter Kennedy directed that appropriate tribute be paid at all post-season playoff games throughout the mourning period.

Officials at the National Airlines Open Golf Tournament announced a minute of silence will be observed at mid-day during Saturday's third round.

"The two biggest things in the President's life were golf and his family," recalled pro great Arnold Palmer, who became acquainted with Ike in 1958 after winning the Masters title. "When he wasn't talking about his grandchildren, I think he was talking about golf.

"He loved the game. When he was on the course, he could shut out the cares of the world."

The National Airlines tourney in Miami, is scheduled to wind up Sunday.

But, with Monday set as an official day of mourning, the 18-hole qualifying round for the Greater Greensboro, N.C., Open was put off until Tuesday, by order of Bill Hoover, general manager of the tournament, and Joseph Dey, commissioner for the tournament division of the Professional Golfers Association.

The 500-mile stock car classic at Atlanta was set to start on schedule Saturday, with a brief memorial service before the race.

Celts, Frisco Take 2-0 Leads

. . . BOSTON TRIUMPHS, 134-103; WARRIORS WIN, 107-101

By Associated Press

The Boston Celtics, stung by the early ejection of Sam Jones and foul trouble to player-coach Bill Russell, staged a fantastic second-half explosion Friday night in Boston to bury the Philadelphia 76ers 134-103 and take a commanding 2-0 lead in their National Basketball Association first-round playoff series.

Larry Siegfried and Emmette Bryant, both pressed into extra duty when Jones was thrown out for arguing early in the first period, completely outplayed the vaunted Philadelphia back court.

Siegfried finished with 20 points 13 of them in the third period when the Celtics broke the game open. Bryant got 15 points and broke up numerous plays in a great-all-around effort.

The best-of-7 series will resume Sunday in Philadelphia.

Tom Sanders also was great in relief, coming off the bench when Russell picked up his fourth foul in the second period. The veteran forward hit five straight points, boosting the Celtics into a 55-54 halftime lead, and wound up with 18 in helping to lead the 70-point second half.

Bailey Howell led the scoring with 29 points, John Havlicek had 24 and Don Nelson 21 to send the Celtics with the lead back to Philadelphia for the third game in the best-of-7 Eastern Division semifinals.

San Francisco's Warriors surprised Los Angeles a second straight time on the Lakers' home floor to win 107-101 and take a 2-0 lead in their opening Western Division National Basketball Association series.

Rudy LaRusso paced the Warriors with 29 points but, the tremendous play of 6-foot-11 Nate Thurmond proved the big difference.

He scored 27 and grabbed 28 rebounds in outplaying the Lakers' Wilt Chamberlain, who drew his fifth foul with 8 minutes 51 seconds to go and sat on the bench the final part of the last period.

In addition to LaRusso and Thurmond, the Warriors had a 20-point output from sharpshooter Jeff Mullins and 18 from Jimmy King.

Jerry West tallied 36 points in all and had 17 of the Lakers' 26 points in the third period.

Murphy Charges To Lead

Miami (AP) — Bob Murphy, a portly, part-time watermelon salesman from Bartow, Fla., suddenly discovered the putting stroke that made him pro golf's rookie of the year in 1968 and swept into the halfway lead of the $200,000 National Airlines Open with a score of 135, nine under par.

The former National Amateur champion, who is fighting a losing battle with the scales, exploded four birdies in a row, eight for the day and putted fantastically in shooting a six-under-par 66, tying the course record.

He moved a single stroke ahead of wiry Dale Douglass, who scrambled out of traps and from behind trees for a 68 and a 36-hole score of 136, with 41-year-old Lionel Hebert, 68-69, and Butch Baird, also 68-69, trailing at 137.

Murphy, a brash red-haired Brooklyn native who grew up in Florida, had a fantastic round.

Opening with a birdie on the first hole, he hit 50 feet short on the next hole — a 203-yard par 3 — and sent his first putt spinning 12 feet beyond the cup. Then he sank coming back — a tough downhiller.

"That one set me off," Murphy, who won more than $170,000 in two tournaments last year (the Westchester Classic where he was second, and the Philadelphia Open which he won). "I had been waiting for my putter to come around. I really had confidence after getting this putt."

Murphy started his birdie string with a nine-footer at his ninth hole, ran in putts of 18, three and four feet for three more birdies in a row and then sank putts of 14, 12 and 15 feet on three of the five finishing holes.

Benson's Taylor Sets Jump Mark

Omaha (AP) — Duane Taylor of Omaha Benson High School Friday night became the highest-jumping school boy in Nebraska records.

Taylor leaped 6-6¾ in the Greater Omaha Indoor Track Meet at the University of Nebraska at Omaha.

The recognized high school record for the state is 6-5½. Taylor's leap probably will not be officially recognized as a new state mark because it was not made in state tournament competition. However, it easily set a meet record, bettering the 6-3 mark set by Dennis Tunks of Boys Town in 1965.

Iowa State Nabs Lead In NCAA Mat Tourney

Provo, Utah (AP) — Iowa State whipped through the semifinal round Friday night, carrying four men into the championships along with a seemingly insurmountable lead.

However, consolation wrestleoffs were still being held Friday night and would continue through the consolation championships Saturday afternoon.

Iowa State led with 76 points, followed by Oklahoma with 59, and Cal Poly and Michigan State with 34 each. Defending champion Oklahoma State, seemingly out of it, had only 29 points.

Leading the Iowa State finalists will be Dan Gable, a 137-pound junior who has never been beaten in high school or college wrestling. Gable was the 130 pound champion last year.

He pinned Ron Russo, Bloomsburg State, in 4:16—his fourth straight pin of the tournament.

The other Iowa State finalists will be 177-pound Chuck Gene who beat Iowa's Vrlyn Strellner; Jason Smith, second-seeded 167-pounder; and Dave Martin, who upset Joe Wiendl of Wilkes College, the No. 2 seed in the 160-pound class.

Oklahoma apparently still has a chance with three finalists. They are 123-pound Dan Kelley, 130-pound Dave McGuire and 160-pound Cleo McGlory. All three are topseeded.

McGlory moved into the finals by whipping Gary Rushing of Arizona in the semis — Rushing's first defeat of the season.

In the heavyweight class Jeff Smith of Michigan State continued his pin string, stopping John Ward of Oklahoma State in 3:42. It was his fourth fall.

Omaha Knights Smash KC, 7-2

Kansas City (AP) — The Omaha Knights outskated and outchecked Kansas City for a 7-2 victory in the first game of the Northern Division playoffs in the Central Hockey League Friday.

The Knights scored a pair of goals in both the first and second periods and then scored three times in the final 20 minutes.

Kansas City went 10 minutes in the first period without a shot on goal. Its first shot in the final period came after 9:28. The first two periods saw 18 penalties for a total of 5 minutes. The third period was free of penalties.

The Omaha goals were scored by six players, with Larry Brown getting two.

Minnesota Power Hits Dodgers With 4 HR's

. . . MONTREAL ZAPS DETROIT, 8-0

By The Associated Press

The Minnesota Twins unloaded four home runs — the final one by relief pitcher Joe Grzenda in the ninth inning — to defeat the Los Angeles Dodgers 6-5 in exhibition baseball Friday.

Cesar Tovar had a three-run homer and Graig Nettles and Rod Carew also connected for the Twins, who wiped out a 5-0 Dodger lead.

Houston rallied for three runs in the seventh inning and defeated the New York Mets 5-4. Doubles by John Edwards and Jesus Alou and a triple by Leon McFadden sparked the rally. Ed Kranepool had two singles and a home run for the Mets.

Darell Evans smacked a two-run homer in the sixth and had a double in a five-run Atlanta rally in the seventh as the Braves tagged Washington 9-4. Del Unser drove in five runs for the Senators.

Kansas City scored a pair of runs in the first inning and defeated Pittsburgh 2-1. Wally Bunker worked six innings for the Royals, allowing one run on five hits. Bob Veale worked seven innings for the Pirates.

Bill Stoneman, Skip Guinn and Carroll Sembera combined for a two-hitter and Montreal exploded for seven runs in the eighth inning to defeat Detroit 8-0.

Ron Santo and Don Kessinger slashed three hits apiece, sparking a 15-hit Chicago attack that carried the Cubs to a 9-4 victory over the San Francisco Giants. Rookie Ken Henderson had three doubles and a single for the Giants.

In other games, the Chicago White Sox outsluged Boston 10-8, Philadelphia pounded Cincinnati 9-2, California rapped San Diego 8-1, Cleveland smacked Oakland 12-2 and Seattle edged California's B team 4-3.

Baltimore played the New York Yankees in a night game at Fort Lauderdale.

Eight Pack Home First At Fonner

Grand Island — Eight Pack won the featured seventh race by a half-length to highlight Fonner Park's sixth day of horse racing Friday.

Felix Chavez rode Eight Pack, which paid $5.20 to win, for his third victory of the day. He had also triumphed in both ends of the daily double aboard No Justice and Bradella for a 7-10 ticket that returned $31.80.

Dave Hancock rode two winners, Hesa Kem in the third and Merry Kem in the fourth. The latter also won by just half a length.

Azur Moon, with Fred Ecoffey up, took the fifth race for the day's biggest payoff, $14.80. Hesa Kem ($12.40) and Bradella ($11.80) ran 2-3 on the pay chart.

Grid Coach Moves Up

Abilene, Tex. (AP) — Wally Bullington, head football coach at Abilene Christian College, was named athletic director Friday.

Legislature Advances Hunt Bill

By Associated Press

The Legislature's Agriculture and Recreation Committee Friday sent to the floor and amended bill which would guarantee that Nebraskans unable to obtain deer hunting permits one year receive them following year.

The measure Nebraska City Sen. Rick Kidd's LB615, would also change the present method of distributing deer permits from "first-come, first-served" basis to a public lottery system.

In addition, the committee accepted state Game Commission director Mel Steen's suggestion that the nonresident hunting permit fees for deer and antelope be hiked from $25 to $50.

Under the bill, when the Commission receives more applications for deer, antelope or wild turkey hunting permits than it has permits, the permits would be allocated by a public drawing.

The committee amended the measure, however, to provide that a Nebraska hunter unable to receive a permit one year would automatically receive one the following year if he should apply for one.

The bill was supported by Sens. Rudolph Skokes of Ord and Elvin Adamson of Valentine and a State Game Commission. There was no opposition.

The committee killed Wilcox Sen. Wayne Ziebarth's LB842, a bill to provide hunting and fishing licenses at a special rate of $1 for Nebraska servicemen home on leave.

The measure was opposed by Steen, who told the committee "You don't set up a device for procuring revenue and keep exempting certain groups."

Frosh, Sophs Setting Pace In NCAA Meet

Bloomington, Ind. (AP) — Freshmen and sophomores showed their strength Friday night in the National Collegiate Athletic Association's swimming meet, accounting for three of the five American records broken.

In the only event in which no U.S. mark fell, Olympic here Charlie Hickcox was upset in the 100-yard backstroke by a Stanford sophomore.

Mark Spitz set a U.S. mark in the 200-yard freestyle, and Don McKenzie lowered the 100 breaststroke record as Indiana won its fifth and sixth events of the meet.

The defending champion Hoosiers had 274 points to runnerup Southern California's 182 after Friday night's finals. The meet ends Saturday night with seven more finals, and Indiana is expected to top its record 345 total of last year.

Long Beach State freshman Hans Fassnacht set a U.S. record of 4 minutes, 7.7 seconds in the 400-yard individual medley finals, and Stanford sophomore John Ferris set a mark of 1:40.6 in the 200-yard butterfly. The fifth U.S. record of the night was Southern California's 6:49.5 in the 800-yard freestyle relay.

George Watson, Mark Mader, Greg Charlton and Frank Heckl made up the Southern Cal team. Spitz swam a 1:39.9 freestyle leg to anchor the Indiana team that almost overcame Southern Cal. Indiana was timed in 6:50.2, also beating the old mark of 6:50.7 held by Yale.

Olympian McKenzie, a senior from Woodland Hills, Calif., lowered the 100 breaststroke record to :58.3.

Injury Ousts Drone From Florida Derby

Miami (AP)—Undefeated Drone, an exciting contender for the Triple Crown races, was withdrawn from the Florida Derby with an injured knee Friday and today's big race for 3-year-olds at Gulfstream Park lost some of its glamor.

Retirement of the Claiborne Farm speedster but the Derby field to five, smallest in 13 years, and made Top Knight a strong favorite at 6-5.

Pirates Trade Sisk, Cannizzaro to Padres

Fort Myers, Fla. (AP) — The Pittsburgh Pirates traded pitcher Tommy Sisk and catcher Chris Cannizzaro to the San Diego Padres Friday for outfielder Ron Davis and infielder Bobby Klaus.

Pittsburgh manager Larry Shepard said Davis, who hit .203 with Houston and St. Louis last season, will be the Pirates' No. 4 outfielder. Davis 28, played centerfield with Houston before being traded to St. Louis in June.

5 Nebraska Cagers Receive NAIA Mention

Kansas City — Five Nebraska state college basketball players were given honorable mention all-American recognition here Friday in the annual NAIA coaches selections.

Those named were Dean Elofson of Wayne, Leslie Grant from Doane, Mike Kinnaird of Chadron, Dan Wilken of Kearney and Tom Raabe from Concordia.

YMCA Show Expects 1,500 Competitors

The Nebraska YMCA Sports Festival doesn't attract the spectators like a Cornhusker football or basketball game or the state basketball tournament, but in terms of participation it's the biggest sports event of the year in Lincoln.

About 1,500 competitors from 11 area YMCAs will participate in the event Saturday.

The local champs from Lincoln, Omaha, Council Bluffs, Sioux City, Norfolk, Beatrice, Fremont, Grand Island, Hastings, McCook and Scottsbluff are bidding for berths in the five-state regional competition in Salina, Kan., April 12.

State winners are to be determined in nine sports at five sites Saturday.

Handball, weightlifting, volleyball, paddle rackets and BB gun competition is slated at the YMCA. Basketball eliminations are scheduled at the University of Nebraska Coliseum, old University High gym, Northeast and East high schools.

The Coliseum also hosts judo and wrestling while swimming competition is to be conducted at East.

Activity opens at 9 a.m. and is scheduled to run through 5:30 p.m.

Champions in Nebraska join winners from Kansas, Wyoming, Colorado and Missouri in the Salina competition.

Libal Out Of Tourney As Conqueror Loses

Provo, Utah — Gene Libal, 191-lb. wrestler from the University of Nebraska, was eliminated Friday in the NCAA wrestling tourney. Russ Hellickson of the University of Wisconsin, who pinned Libal Thursday, lost a quarterfinal match Friday. Under tourney rules, Hellickson's loss eliminated Libal.

49ers Aide To Jets

New York (AP) — Ken Meyer, an assistant coach with the San Francisco 49ers, was named offensive assistant of the New York Jets Friday by head coach and general manager Weeb Ewbank.

Harm's, Clarinda In Tourney Semis

Barneston — Harm's Lumber of Firth and the Clarinda, Ia., Lancers advanced to the semifinals of the Barneston basketball tournament by posting victories Friday night.

Harm's nipped Edwards Oil of Fremont, 100-97, behind Bob Hahn's 29 points while Clarinda clobbered Bob's Market of Sterling, 133-70.

In today's consolation bracket, State Bank of Odell is matched against Bahr Grain of Barneston at 3 p.m. and Edwards Oil plays Bob's Market at 5. In the 7 p.m. semifinals, Lincoln Chubbyville meets Triangle Electric of Falls City to be followed at 9 by the Harms-Clarinda game.

For AAU Crown

Macon, Ga. (AP) — Goodyear of Akron, Ohio, trounced the Macon Movers 93-66 and the Armed Forces All-Stars turned back challenging Lexington, Ky., 89-68 Friday night to move into the finals of the National AAU Basketball Tournament.

Tonight's showdown matches the defending champion All-Stars against the 1967 champs, with Lexington and Macon playing for third place.

Lexington, a seven-man surprise, threw a scare into the All-Stars in the first semifinal game, but Akron was never threatened by Macon.

Bill OKd To Raise Interest On Delayed Road Payments

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

Legislation which would increase the interest rate on delayed payments to contractors by the Department of Roads won 5-0 approval Friday from the Public Works Committee.

The bill, LB1201, sponsored by Sen. C. W. Holmquist of Oakland, would boost the interest rate from 6% to 8%, and provide for payment to begin 60 days after completion date.

The department does not begin paying interest on delayed payments now until 90 days after work under the contract is completed.

Contractors Back It

LB1201 was supported by spokesmen for the Associated General Contractors and the Greater Omaha Heavy Contractors Association.

Contractors said they are more interested in providing additional incentive for the state to make prompt payment than in collecting higher interest.

O. W. Johnson, speaking for the department, said he did not consider the proposal unreasonable.

Progress Reported

The department is "making considerable progress" in providing prompter payment on completed contracts. Johnson said, as evidenced by its reduced costs of interest. They amount to about $40,000 a year, he noted.

Also sent to the floor was LB1178, which would broaden the state engineer's authority to lease land and buildings acquired for highway purposes.

Tiemann Expects Half Of Snow Aid Not To Be Spent

Gov. Norbert T. Tiemann predicted Friday that Nebraska cities and counties will use less than half the $1 million appropriated as state aid for snow removal.

Only $180,000 has been expended to date, he reported.

Tiemann also announced the approval of three cities' applications for snow removal funds.

They are Allen, $1,479; Fairmont, $633; and Wilcox, $231.

State Pays $1.8 Million For Welfare Medicaid

By United Press International

Records in the State Public Welfare Department showed Friday the state paid out more than $1.8 million in medicaid payments last year in an 11-month period for welfare recipients needing medical care.

The figures showed an additional $687,000 was paid to dentists for treating 7,002 persons from Feb. 1 to Dec. 31.

A total of 27,542 persons received medical care under the medicaid program with an average cost of $67.59 per recipient. The average for dental care was $98.17 per recipient.

The figures showed Omaha dentist William V. Harrison received the largest total payments of any practitioner in the state — a total of $40,148. Another Omaha resident, Dr. William H. Johnson, topped the list for physicians receiving $39,573 for treating 902 recipients.

Medicaid is financed by contributions from federal, state and county governments, with the federal government paying 60% and the state and counties each paying 20%.

The figures were compiled by the welfare department in an attempt to establish "tighter fiscal controls" on the medicaid program, which some legislators feel is out of control.

The figures showed two other Omaha doctors an Omaha clinic and an Omaha dentist all received more than $20,000.

They were Drs. James R. Dunlap, who treated 131 patients and received $33,759; E. L. Egan Dean, who treated 326 patients and received $21,997; the Prairie Clinic, which treated 460 patients and received $28,593, and dentist Leon Feldman, who treated 154 patients and received $25,609.

Other physicians or clinics in the top 10 were:

Gentry Medical Center of Gering, 330 patients with payments of $19,405; Drs. Bass and Dalton of Genoa, 173 patients with payments of $19,160; Drs. Neeley, McGreer and Bradley of Lincoln, 645 patients with payments of $18,590; Physicians Pathology Laboratory of Lincoln, 498 patients with payments of $17,386; Platte Valley Clinic of Scottsbluff, 381 patients with payments totaling $17,307, and Dr. Herman Nuss of Sutton, 100 patients with payments totaling $16,773.

Four other dentists were paid in five figures.

They were Sam Turkel of Omaha, 102 patients for payments of $19,669; Earl L. Lampshire of Lincoln, 121 patients for $15,334; J. J. Bellinghierre of Omaha, 50 patients for payments of $12,341; and Richard Brunmeier of Lincoln, 83 patients for $11,864.

Law Officers Finish Course

Law officers from throughout the state were recognized Friday for having completed three weeks of instruction in the finer points of law enforcement in a pilot project sponsored by the Nebraska State Patrol.

Since the first unit of classes began in January, 76 officers representing 45 law agencies have completed the course, designed to inform the officers of services and responsibilities of related agencies, improve professional competence and develop pride in the profession.

Subject matter given special emphasis during the 108 classroom hours included motor vehicle laws, accident investigation and reporting, court procedures, first aid and human relations.

Other subjects included defensive driving and pursuit procedures, marksmanship, self defense and communications.

The officers attending the sessions were divided into three sections, with each section meeting for one week each month.

Friday, the final group received certificates presented by Kenneth Bowen, executive secretary of the Nebraska League of Municipalities, an organization which had a supporting interest in the program.

The training sessions were presented without cost. The recent approval of a federal grant covering portions of the cost will provide partial reembursement for food and transportation expenses paid by sponsoring agencies.

Instructors included specialists from various city, county and federal agencies in addition to the staff at the Patrol Training Center.

School Aid Law Change Advanced

The Legislature gave first round approval Friday to five bills, including a measure to allow school districts to receive federal impact aid without being penalized under the state school aid law.

The bill, LB633, sponsored by State Sen. Orval Keyes of Papillion, would remove the provision from the state school aid law that requires a district receiving federal impact aid to have the amount of that aid deducted from its state aid allocation.

Other bills receiving initial Unicameral approval would:

—Permit privately owned property located on federally owned tax exempt land to be taxed.

—Change the license expiration date for insurance agents and brokers from the last day in April to the last day in June.

—Revise state driving laws governing the right of way at intersections.

Elrod Proposes Study Of City, County Mergers

The Interstate Commerce in the Unicameral Friday for the creation of a committee to study "all pertinent aspects" of merging cities and counties into single governmental units.

It was introduced by State Sen. Donald Elrod of Grand Island, who noted that the state constitution does not permit such mergers now and that suggestions have been made that this would "provide greater efficiency and economy" in government if it were permissible.

Legislative Bills Introduced

By Associated Press

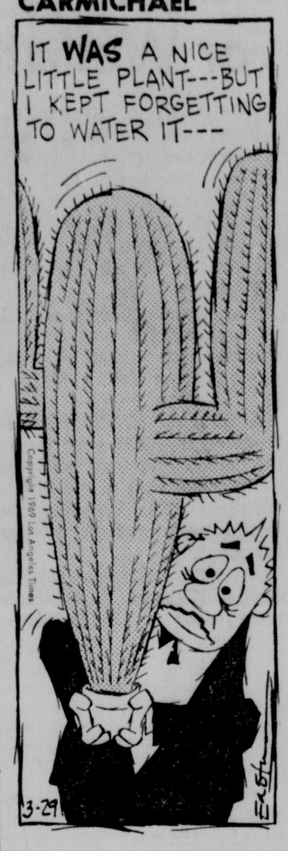

Bills introduced in the Legislature Friday:

LB1356 (Agriculture Committee) — Authorizing soil and water conservation districts to engage in pollution prevention and control, and amending related law.

Circuit Board Told

Burbank, Calif. (UPI) — A revolutionary metal core printed circuit board that dissipates heat rapidly was announced by International Electronics Research Corp., a division of Dynamics Corp. of America.

CARMICHAEL

Pollution Control Bill Is Introduced

A bill giving soil and water conservation districts the power to work in the field of pollution control and prevention was introduced in the Legislature Friday.

The bill, which is the 1,365th to be introduced in this session, is sponsored by the Legislature's Agriculture Committee.

Teacher Aides Approved

By Associated Press

Nebraska school districts would be authorized to employ "teacher aides" under a bill passed on final reading in the State Legislature Friday.

The aides could not assume any teaching responsibilities, but "may be assigned duties which are nonteaching in nature, if the employing school has assured itself that the aide has been specifically prepared for such duties, including the handling of emergency situations which might arise in the course of his work."

Passed 41-0 was a bill making it a separate felony to use a dangerous weapon while committing another felony.

Also among 11 bills passed was a measure authorizing the State Board of Health to appoint an acting state health director.

The list (E-emergency clause):

LB264 (Reynolds, Klaver) — Deleting an exception of sidewalks in law related to street assessment in Omaha. 39-0.

LB765 (Reynolds, Klaver — Variously revising Omaha street improvement law to authorize mall improvement districts, and separate or combined street and sidewalk improvement districts. (E). 41-0.

LB311 (Luedtke, Swanson, Orme, Simpson) — Providing procedures for appeals to the court from administrative or judicial orders or decisions of the city of Lincoln and its officers, department or boards. 37-0.

LB511 (Orme) — Requiring approval of State Records Board for destruction of certain records, and revising related law. (E) 41-0.

LB540 (Carpenter) — Providing for protective assistance payments under aid to dependent children program where such payments are necessary to best interests of the child. (E). 42-0.

LB598 (Orme, Schreurs) — Authorizing the State Health Board to appoint an acting director of health, and estabishing qualifications. (E). 41-0.

LB602 (Carstens, Simpson, Nore, Danner, Skarda, Bloom) — Making it a separate felony offense to use a firearm, knife or other dangerous weapon in the commission of a felony. (E) 41-0.

LB655 (Ziebarth) — Authorizing use of noncertified teacher aides in public, private, denomination or parochial schools. 39-0.

LB685 (Carstens) — Strengthening authority of probation officers and other peace officers to rearrest or detain probationers without a warrant. 42-0.

LB871 (Syas) — Repealing sections of law covering use by city of Omaha of eminent domain for acquisition of property. 40-0.

LB190 (Carpenter) — Directing a limited urban renewal project in South Omaha, unless vetoed by the Omaha City Council, and deleting requirement for vote of the people for a limited urban renewal project in Lincoln. (E). 33-3.

Stock Market's Rally Continues

New York (AP) — Drawing continued strength from renewed peace hopes, the stock market successfully carried its latest rally through a third straight day Friday.

The Dow Jones industrial average, off the first day of the week and unchanged the second, headed into higher ground Wednesday and stayed there the rest of the week.

The Dow was up 5.47 points at 11:30 a.m. EST but eased slightly after that and closed at 935.48 for a gain of 4.60 points.

Gains led losses throughout the session and never were headed. Of 1,549 issues traded, 804 advanced, and 518 declined. New highs for the year totaled 72 and new lows 62.

Brokers attributed the market's performance to "mostly Vietnam peace hopes again."

The New York and American Stock exchanges stopped trading for two minutes at 1:30 p.m. EST in respect for former President Eisenhower, who died Friday. And both said they would close Monday in respect for his memory.

Volume on the New York exchange was 2.43 million shares, the best since Feb. 24, when turnover totaled 12.73 million shares. Turnover Thursday was 11.9 million shares. Blocks of 10,000 shares or more totaled 78, compared with 68 Thursday.

The New York Stock Exchange index of some 1,200 common stocks was up 0.23 to 56.85.

Conglomerate issues, which have been under pressure recently, turned in a mixed performance.

Eleven of the 20 most-active stocks on the New York exchange finished with gains, 7 were lower, and 2 were unchanged.

United Utilities, most-active largely because of a 136,400-share block, was off ¼ at 28. Mansanto, second most-active, was unchanged at 46¼. A 98,900 share block of Monsanto traded earlier at 46½, up ¼.

Fifteen of the 20 most-active issues on the American Stock Exchange were higher, and 5 were lower.

Wheat Futures Prices Decline

Chicago (AP) — Wheat futures posted the third straight week of declining prices on the Chicago Board of Trade, the past week, but the heaviest losses of the period were listed by choice steer futures.

Most commodities closed on a generally weak tone when trade ended on Friday for the week, but choice steer futures, which had been advancing for weeks, ran into liquidation that sent some contracts down by as much as 200 points.

When trade closed on Friday, wheat was 1⅜ to 1¾ cents a bushel lower; May 1.25¾; corn was ⅜ lower to ⅜ higher, May 1.16; oats were ½ to 1 cent higher, May 66⅛ cents; rye was ⅜ to 1 cent lower, May 1.14¾; and soybeans were 1 cent lower to 2 cents higher, May 2.62⅝.

Soybean oil closed unchanged to 7 points higher, May 8.36; soybean meal was .55 points lower to 50 points higher, May 73.05.

Wheat futures responded to a lack of export business, general liquidation and reports that a couple of nominal customers of the United States had gone to other countries for wheat during the week.

Other grain futures prices were generally mixed for the week. Soybeans attracted buying interest to new crop contracts, but old crop remained under selling pressure. Soybean oil and meal also closed on an irregular tone.

Major Markets Closed Monday

New York (AP) — The New York and American Stock exchanges announced Friday they will be closed Monday in observance of the national day of mourning for former President Dwight D. Eisenhower. Other major exchanges and commodity markets also announced they will be closed.

Hog Prices Are Steady To Weak

Omaha (AP) — Butcher hogs were steady to weak but sow prices were firm in Omaha Friday.

Butchers 190-240 lbs. 20.50-21.25; 240-270 lbs. 20.00-20.75. Sows under 400 lbs. 19.00-19.50; 400-600 lbs. 18.25-19.00.

Fed cattle supplies were too small to test prices. A few sales of steers looked weak. Cows were unchanged. Five loads choice 1,125-1,225 lbs. steers 29.50-30.25. Beef cows, 20.00-21.25, extra good 21.50; canners and cutters 17.00-20.00.

Fat lambs nominally steady, shorn quoted to 30.00. Ewes 7.00-9.00.

Moral Context Of Sex Stressed

By LUCILLE HOWARD
Star Staff Writer

Sex education should be presented within a framework of marriage, love, God and children, a man and wife medical team told some 500 parents and teachers in Lincoln Diocese Catholic schools meeting here Friday.

"We must get rid of the prudishness" among parents and teachers who are the primary sex education instructors, declared Dr. J. C. Wilke, a Cincinnati doctor. "But we must be careful not to throw out moral values at the same time."

The problem with "libertarian sex educators" and most of the new materials being prepared for sex education is the "absence of any values" presented in connection with the subject, Wilke and his wife, a nurse, emphasized as they shared the podium for the address.

'Takes 20 Years'

The facts about sexual intercourse take 20 minutes for a student to learn. But "sex education takes 20 years," Wilke said.

Sex education involves teaching a "solid, healthy attitude towards what it means to be a man or woman, all day long — not just in bed at night," he said.

Madison Avenue and the public media, primarily television, have taught children to believe that love is "satisfaction for me," Mrs. Wilke contended. Parents and teachers, however, "must get it across that love is giving of oneself because he wants the best for the person he loves."

Youths hear all of the abuses and misuses of sexual relations, she complained. Parents, afraid to exhibit emotional love in front of their children, "do not let them know the positive aspects."

People Emphasized

Mrs. Dolores Curran, of Littleton, Colo., a religious education advisor, told the Catholic audience that "it is doubtful that religious education will survive today's kids if we continue within four walls instead of with people."

Religious education needs to be "put where the action is" in business, on reservations, in riots and unconventional platforms that will help youths recognize that religious education is relevant to their lives, Mrs. Curran said.

The columnist also declared that "dying customs" such as rosaries "need to be replaced with something with meaning."

A mass developed for youths that "keeps pace with life" also is necessary. The church needs to change its idea that because some of its ideas are not accepted by an individual, he cannot belong, Mrs. Curran said.

Law Students, Faculty At NU Back Legal Aid

Students and faculty of the University of Nebraska Law College were among the nearly 8,000 law students and teachers who have asked the Nixon administration to maintain federally-supported legal services programs.

The 7,908 signatures — among them the names of 188 Nebraska students and teachers — were presented to Robert Finch, secretary of Health, education and welfare, in Washington, D.C., Friday.

The legal services program provides legal aid for persons who are financially unable to seek other counsel.

A letter accompanying the signatures said, "Wholehearted support of the legal services program will play a large part in breaking the barrier of poverty and permitting all of our citizens to participate fully in our national life."

$50,000 In Damages Sought By Woman In Car Accident

A $50,000 suit was filed Friday in Lancaster District Court by Marie Rejda against Thomas Novacek in connection with a Sept. 4, 1965, two-car accident.

The plaintiff alleges negligence on the part of the defendant when the car he was driving collided with one driven by the plaintiff about 10 miles west and one mile south of Wahoo.

She alleges that the defendant didn't maintain reasonable control of the vehicle, proper lookout, yield right-of-way and was travelling at an unreasonable speed.

As a result of the accident, Mrs. Rejda claims she suffered fractures, a cerebral concussion, partial loss of eyesight and many bruises, cuts and scars.

Some Rates Reduced

Miami (UPI) — Dade Federal Savings & Loan Association announced it is reducing interest rates for some types of prime mortgage loans to 7% from 7¼%. The reduction applies to 70% mortgages on one-family homes in the $15,000 to $40,000 bracket.

United Christian Youth Conferring To Affect Adults

About 70 young people are conferring at the First Plymouth Congregational Church to formulate plans to influence the adult conference of the United Churches of Christ convention to be held in Ogallala April 28.

According to Penny Greer, program chairman of the Nebraska Conference for Youth annual meeting, the youths are formulating resolutions which they hope will be heard and considered at the adult conference.

Miss Greer said some of the resolutions will deal with open housing, the Peace Corps, rehabilitation, Job Corps, the military-industrial complex and VISTA.

Police Chief Is Red-Faced

Swanzey, N.H. (AP) — Police Chief Ralph Rines was a little red-faced Friday as he set about investigating a $50 burglary.

The money was taken overnight, along with some automobile registration records, from a safe in the police station at the town hall.

Alexander Said To Be Replaced

Washington (UPI) — The White House said Friday that President Nixon "in due time" probably would appoint a new chairman of the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission to succeed Clifford L. Alexander Jr., who was harshly criticized by Senate Republican leader Everett M. Dirksen.

But presidential press secretary Ronald Ziegler told questioners that Nixon's plans had no "direct connection" with Dirksen's accusation that Alexander had harassed private businessmen about job discrimination.

Fruit Plant Planned

Bakersfield, Calif. (UPI) — Tenneco's Kern County Land Co. subsidiary will build a multimillion dollar packing and cold storage plant in Bakersfield to process citrus fruits, grapes and vegetables, grown on company plantations and for other growers.

Downtown Block Redevelopment By City Opposed

Hal Hasselbalch, City Council candidate, opposed Friday the redevelopment of a downtown business block by the city of Lincoln.

"If development of the block (bounded by N and O, and 11th and 12th Sts.) is a good business venture for the city, then it is probably a good venture for a private developer," Hasselbalch said.

He said several businessmen had earlier suggested that the buildings on the block be demolished and a new structure be erected by the city which would then lease space to businessmen.

Hasselbalch did agree that the redevelopment of the block would e a great asset to the city.

Drama Students Get Compliments From Playwright

When Doniphan High School students presented "800 Rubles" Friday afternoon at the University of Nebraska High School Fine Arts Festival, they learned that a surprise guest — the playwright — had been watching.

John Neihardt, Nebraska's poet laureate, complimented the young drama students following the show. It was the first time high schoolers had performed the play, which was written in 1913.

It was also the first time Neihardt had appeared in the NU Temple Building since he was made state poet laureate in 1921.

Nearly 1,800 high school students, parents and teachers are taking part in the two-day festival culminating in an awards ceremony Saturday afternoon.

Art, music, speech and drama students are participating in the 35-year-old program.

Surgery Drive For Lincoln Girl Is Over $2,000

The fund drive which began this week for Janice Burton, a 19-year-old Lincoln girl who needs corrective surgery in order to live, has risen to $2,019, according to Women in Community Services (WICS).

Included was a check from as far away as Pennsylvania and a donation which was only signed "From John, Carol, Joey and Tracie."

WICS said that other organizations and individuals have promised another $900.

The group of Lincoln women is attempting to raise at least $5,000, which is needed in advance by the Minnesota hospital where Miss Burton will undergo surgery to correct a spinal defect.

Town Hall Meet Set For Tuesday

A town hall-type meeting will be held Tuesday at Pershing Auditorium to organized a "task force to communicate to the public" on the bond issues on the May 6 general election.

Robert Northrop, chairman of the Mayor's Capital Improvements Advisory Board, said the meeting will begin at 7:30 p.m.

The bond issues would pay for $2.35 million in capital improvements, including libraries, fire stations and an asphalt plant.

Vinyl Blouse Stops Talk

Tulsa, Okla. (AP) —An amply endowed young woman sauntered into a Tulsa restaurant this week wearing a transparent vinyl blouse with nothing under it but her.

Three highway patrolmen were sipping coffee and chatting.

Conversation stopped. Someone coughed. Someone else dropped a cup of coffee.

Then the patrolmen made their move.

New Depreciation Sought By LT&T

Lincoln Telephone and Telegraph Co. has applied to the State Railway Commission for a schedule of increased depreciation rates applicable to its plant and equipment.

LT&T president Thomas C. Woods Jr. said that if the proposed rate change had been in effect during 1968, net earnings would have been $189,000 less.

Greece's Queen Expecting Again

Rome (AP) — King Constantine of Greece announced that his wife, Queen Anne Marie, is expecting another child in October.

The king and queen have two children, Prince Paul, who is nearly 2, and Princess Alexia, 3. The family has been living here in self-imposed exile since December, 1967.

Here is a practical little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add three. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures gives you.

The Friendly Evergreens

PINES

PINES (Pinus) — The pine family can be a very versatile group of evergreens. Most of the family grow to be large, tall trees, and should be planted with care. The pines could be planted as specimen trees or could be used as a screening tree, or even for windbreaks. There are many varieties in the family of pines, but the ones listed below are the ones most commonly used here in Nebraska. The one variety, Mugho, is a small pine, dwarf in habit, used mainly at doorways or at the corners of low homes.

12"x12" 10.50

FIRS

FIRS (Abies)—The fir family is made up of a group of evergreens resembling our spruces, although the needles are very soft and flat. Douglas Fir is the most rapid grower of the firs, while the Concolor Fir has the very beautiful blue color and is many times mistaken for the Blue Spruce. Here again the firs become very large, broad trees and should be planted as specimens, or with good spacing if used as a screening or windbreak tree. Firs like good drainage to grow their very best.

DOUGLAS FIR (Pseudotsuga) — Rapid grower. Long graceful branches. Soft blue to green needles.

2-2½'...$10.95 3½-4'...$20.95
3-3½'... 18.25 4-4½'... 25.25

2½-3'... 18.95 3½-4'... 31.50

CONCOLOR, PYRAMIDAL — Pyramidal type Concolor with soft blue grey needles.

4½-5'...$63.00

SPRUCES

SPRUCES (Picea) — The spruce family, like the pines and the firs, are mainly tall, broad, handsome trees, and should be planted with care and good spacing because they make an excellent specimen tree. The spruces and the firs hold their branches clear to the ground throughout their lifetime and thus differ from the pines, which eventually lose their lower branches and go into a tree form. In the spruces the fastest growing spruce would be the Black Hills, while the Colorado types and the Morheims are much slower. The Colorado Blue and the grafted Morheim and Kosters Blue Spruces are the most popular, but also can be the most expensive because of supply and time for growing. In the spruce family, the one variety that we carry that is dwarf and can be used close to buildings or as a doorway planting would be the Dwarf Alberta Spruce which takes many, many years to attain a four or five foot height.

BLACK HILLS — Very hardy. Compact and bushy. Green to bluish tint.

SPREADING JUNIPERS

SPREADING JUNIPERS (Juniperus) — The Juniper family has a vast number of species and varieties within the family. Spreading Junipers are probably the most used of all the junipers, and includes types that are only one to six inches tall to varieties that may grow three or four feet tall at maturity. The following list gives you height and color of foliage and is made up of the more commonly used varieties for foundation plantings around homes.

ANDORRA JUNIPER — Grows about 12" tall. Foliage green in summer and turns a rich pink plum on tips of branches in colder weather.

1 gal. ...$2.95 18-24"...$9.95
15-18" ... 8.50

PFITZER, GOLD TIPPED — Has the same habit of growth as the regular Pfitzer, but with golden tips on each branch.

2 gal. ...$5.95 18-24" ..$7.95

PFITZER, SILVER BLUE—Same habit of growth as regular Pfitzer but silvery blue in color.

15-18"...$7.50 18-24"...$7.95

PROCUMBENS NANA — Creeping juniper. Bluish green. Used extensively in Japanese gardens.

15-18"..$11.50 18-24"..$13.75

PLUMOSA COMPATA — Compact grower. New variety.

1 gal. can....$3.95

SAN JOSE — Excellent prostrate type juniper. Sage green in color.

SARGENTI SCANDIA — Low growing plant with dark green foliage.

1 gal. ...$4.95 5 gal. ...$9.95

TAMARISCIFOLIA — Semi-dwarf spreader. Hardy and useful as a ground cover. Attractive blue-green foliage.

12-15"...$8.50 15-18"..$11.95

STAKED JUNIPERS

STAKED SPREADING JUNIPERS — These are junipers that are grown in an upright habit by staking in the field and this gives a plant more height so that it can be used for screening purposes. The varieties of Pfitzer Junipers that are most commonly used for this purpose are:

GOLDEN STAKED PFITZER — The new growth is golden yellow contrasting with the green foliage of the old growth.

SILVER BLUE STAKED PFITZER — Shining silvery blue foliage.

2½-3'..$15.95 3-3½'...$18.50

GLOBE SHAPED JUNIPERS

GLOBE-SHAPED JUNIPERS—The junipers, usually made from spreading type junipers, are shaped as a small ball and should be used at doorways or in more formal parts of the garden.

SILVER GLOBES—Sheared into compact globes of silver-blue globes.

GREEN GLOBES — Beautifully symmetrical with deep green foliage.

Potted ...$3.95 18-24" $ 9.50
15-18"... 8.50 2-2½'.. 11.50

PYRAMIDAL JUNIPERS

PYRAMIDAL JUNIPERS (Juniperus) — These varieties of the juniper family are the trees most commonly used at the corner of homes, or as a screen when planted in a row at the back of property, or used in combination with flowering trees and shrubs as an accent of evergreen for winter effect. The following list is some of the upright junipers that were found to be the most hardy and had the most attractive foliage for Nebraska.

AMES — Dense, compact broad based pyramid. Colorful blue green foliage.

BLAAUWI — Compact, irregular shaped habit. Heavy textured foliage is silver green.

BLUE HAVEN — Rapid grower. Brilliant silvery blue foliage.

CANNAERTI — Rich dark green foliage. Sometimes covered with powdery blue berries.

DUNDEE — Attractive greyish green in summer turning pinkish purple in winter.

GLAUCA — Bright silvery blue in spring darkening as season progresses.

HENRYI — Dark green foliage. Symmetrical habit of growth.

HILLSPIRE — Fast growing. Smoother and more formal than Cannaerti. Bright green.

IOWA — Elegant, informal pyramid densely covered with bluish green foliage.

KETELEER — Ascending branching habit. Bright green in color.

MT. BATTEN — Dense, compact. Silvery green soft needled foliage.

STEEL BLUE — Dark blue green foliage, naturally compact branching.

WELCHI — Silvery green foliage covers this excellent naturally cone shaped tree.

2½-3'..$13.95 3½-4'..$16.25
3-3½'.. 14.95 4-4½'.. 18.95

ESPALIERED JUNIPERS

ESPALIERED JUNIPERS — These junipers are espaliered on redwood trellises and we have found many uses for them, especially in disguising air-conditioning units or many other places where we might require more height than a low spreading juniper would give us.

BAR HARBOR — Beautiful soft blue, changing to silvery plum color in winter.

SARGENTI GLAUCA — Heavy, beautiful bluish green foliage holds its color all year.

SILVER SPREADER — Shiny silvery branches dressed with colorful silvery foliage.

JAPANESE YEW

JAPANESE YEWS (Taxus) — The Japanese Yew is considered to be the King of the Evergreens, because of its beautiful dark green color, its slow growth, its resistance to disease and insects, and its ability to withstand severe trimming and still do well. Within the family of yews there are many shapes and heights, from the Cuspidata spreading yew to the Hicks Yew and the Capitata Yew that are upright in habit of growth. Yews will stand severe shading and are most commonly planted on the north and east side of our homes here in Nebraska, but can be planted in more sunny locations if one starts with larger specimen plants. Yews are more expensive in price because it takes a very long time to develop specimen plants due to their very slow growth.

TAXUS CUSPIDATA DENSIFORMUS— Very compact and sheared in a globe shape.

10-12"..$ 5.95 18-24"..$14.25
15-18".. 11.50 2-2½'.. 16.95

TAXUS CUSPIDATA NIGRA—Slower growing, darker green spreader.

2-2½'...$16.95

TAXUS CUSPIDATA BROWNI — Best known form of Globe Yew. Dark green foliage and red berries in the fall.

18-24".. $14.25

TAXUS INTERMEDIA SEBIAN—Much darker than most Yews.

10-12"...$5.95

TAXUS MEDIA HATFIELDI — Dark green columnar type.

15-18".. $8.50 2-2½'..$16.95

HEMLOCK

HEMLOCK (Tsuga)—Hemlocks are beautiful upright, feathery-foliaged evergreens that are not too common in Nebraska. The hemlocks can eventually grow to some height, and should be planted with care as to spacing and location. Be sure that hemlocks have well drained soil for best growth.

TSUGA CANADENSIS — CANADIAN HEMLOCK — Graceful, broad conical. Best large tree for shady areas. Dark green in color.

Potted $4.95

GET YOUR GARDEN GROWING

With Campbell's Annuals

ANNUALS: Here we have the backbone of the flower garden. The little annual plants are easy to plant and produce a continual array of color throughout the growing season. Petunias, that used to be very common, have now graduated into a spectacular group of plants that take little care, have excellent form and color and can be depended upon year after year. All of our annuals are either put up in flats, packs of 12 plants or potted in 2¼" peat pots, and one can hardly fail with annuals if they have moderately good soil and a minimum amount of care.

. . . . and Campbell's Perennials

PERENNIALS: Here we find many of the old-fashioned plants that have been grown for many, many years and still grace the flower beds with plants that will come back each year and produce bloom from early spring until fall. Perennials are either spring-flowering, summer-flowering or fall flowering, and by using the right combinations, one can get a continual sequence of bloom throughout the season. In a perennial bed, I think the addition of annuals is very important to keep the full bed in bloom throughout the season. For instance, if one has a group of columbines, annuals can be planted in late spring to give this portion of the garden a blooming period into the summer. Remember to plant your perennials in groups. This becomes much more effective than rows or single plants.

Timetable for a more beautiful yard through annuals

1. Either late in the fall, or early in the Spring, the ground in all flower beds should be turned and Superphosphate should be added to the soil.
2. May 1 — Ground in flower beds should be raked and smoothed down and beds fully prepared for planting.
3. Although you may plant earlier, the safe date from frost in Nebraska is May 20th. Some years you will be taking a chance to plant before this date.
4. It is much easier to plan a garden and get the desired planting effect by working with plants. Seeds may be used effectively though, too, and must be thinned out after germination. Don't overplant an area; it is just as bad as not enough plants.
5. After planting, the garden should be watered well to help plants get started. A light fertilization such as UPSTART will enable the plant to adapt to the soil much easier and will give you a blooming garden quicker.
6. The ground around the plants should be hoed about one week after planting to remove any excess weeds. Then HERITAGE HOUSE WEED AND GRASS PREVENTER should be applied which will help keep a weed free garden all season long.
7. To maintain the most effective bloom all season long, a liquid fertilizer should be used on the beds at least once a month.

SHRUBS

FLOWERING and ORNAMENTAL

Under this category comes all of the many-stemmed plants that are woody in nature, that is, the old wood staying from year to year, most of which bloom at some time of the year. Shrubs, often times, are the difference between a satisfactory landscape and an excellent one; for we can get a changing effect to the landscape throughout the year by using shrubs that bloom at different times or have a beautiful foliage to offer in contrast to the rest of the plantings.

Besides the bloom, many varieties offer either an outstanding foliage such as Barberry, Golden Vicary, Ninebark, etc.; or a beautiful plain stem such as the red stemmed and yellow stemmed Dogwoods.

Flowering Shrubs should be trimmed at least once a year, taking out the largest canes every year. All trimming should be done immediately after the shrub has finished blooming and the stems trimmed out should be taken out clear down at ground level to force the shrub to produce new stems every year. If this practice is followed, approximately every seven years you will have a completely new plant and will receive a more beautiful bloom every year.

In planting a packaged shrub, follow the directions on the package carefully. Make sure that the tender root system is exposed to the air as little as possible and that the hole for the shrub is at least 1 foot larger on all sides than the shrub at its base. All dormant shrubs should be trimmed back at planting. The root system should be checked and any damaged or broken roots should be trimmed out. The top of the plant should be trimmed back at least ½ of the original size of the shrub. When planting, the shrub should be watered well and a phosphate fertilizer such as UPSTART should be added to the soil around the plant.

By following these simple instructions, you should have no problems with any shrub. If you have any questions about Shrubs or their care, please feel free to call us at the nursery. Knowledge is our business.

Althea—Also know as Rose of Sharon. The ultimate height is 8-10 ft. Blooming in late summer, the shrub is covered with single or double blooms.

Azalea ..... See Conainer Shrubs

Barberry—The barberry family is widely known and used. The red leafed variety is used not only in mass plantings but also for accent to add color to a planting. The crimson pygmy is a dwarf red variety that grows to a height of about 1½ feet compared to the four feet of the regular. The green barberry is used in hedges and also accent plantings to give a different foliage to a landscape. The Mentorensis variety is an upright variety of ultimate height of about four feet. It has a green foliage which turns red in the fall.

Crimson Pygmy .. See Container Shrubs

Baltic Ivy ..... See Container Srubs

Beautybush—The height is about 6 feet and the shrub blooms profusely in May with a pink bloom. The blooms are borne clear along the arching branches. This shrub may be used in groups or as a specimen.

Boxwood, Korean, See Container Shrubs

Buddliea—or commonly known as Butterfly Bush—This shrub is unique in the fact that it freezes down to the ground every year but then comes back in the spring and grows to 4 to 5 feet. In late summer it gets a panicle of bloom like that of the lilac. The blooms are 5-12 inches long and the plant comes in red or blue bloom.
Red Buddliea .... See Container Shrubs
Blue Buddliea ... See Container Shrubs

Cotoneaster—The cotoneaster family is classified basically by its growing pattern. Each of the varieties blooms in a beautiful delicate pink color. During the fall and winter the plant produces a red berry. Used in a variety of ways such as hedging, specimen plants or group plantings.
Acutifolio—upright growing 2.25
Blackburn—low growing ..... See Container Shrubs
Divaricata—spreading 3.50
Perpusilla—very low growing ..... See Container Shrubs

Currant, Alpine—Shrub may be grown as specimen plant or in hedge form. Will take shade and grows to about 4 ft. upright growth. ea. 2.95

Deutzia, Gracilis—A very dwarf shrub for use in that special spot that needs something low growing. A very dense, bushy shrub which has a pure white bloom in the spring. ea. 2.95

Dogwood—The Dogwood family again is a wide one and is often times more known for the winter coloration that it provides a landscape as well as its summer coloration. There is a variety of heights too.

Kelsey dwarf—This variety grows to about 5 ft. and has a white bloom in the spring. The shrub drops its leaves in the fall and exposes a beautiful red stem for winter coloration. See Container Shrubs

Baileyi—This is the erect type with dark red branches. It blooms nearly all summer in the white coloration. The fall foliage is quite colorful and again this variety offers the red stem for winter coloration. each 2.50

Variegated—This variety is an outstanding accent plant. The leaves are deep green in the center with a silver white edge to them. White flowers appear in early June with the shrub reaching an ultimate height of 6-8 feet. Winter coloration of the red stem is again present. each 3.95

Yellow Stemmed Dogwood—This variety offers a little contrast in the stem coloration. This variety also will attain a height eventually of 6-8 feet. Otherwise this variety has the same growth characteristics as the red stem variety. each 3.25

Euonymus—A very broad family of which we carry the major hardy varieties to our Nebraska climate. The Euonymus is practically in a kind of its own being a broadleafed evergreen which holds its leaves all winter long, as well as during the growing season.
Alatus Compacta—A dwarf variety with large green leaves which go to a brilliant warm crimson in the fall. It maintains a very corky bark. Very useful in landscapes both as a specimen plant or in group plantings. It has an ultimate height of about 6 feet. See Container Shrubs
Sarcoxie ..... See Container Shrubs
Patens Vincafolia . See Container Shrubs

Prairie—(A newer variety) each 2.50

Flowering Quince—Shrub attains a height of 5-8 feet. The bloom which varies from a light pink to an orange-red, depending on the variety; appears early in the spring before the foliage. An upright shrub which can be used in almost any circumstance.
Orange Red ..... each 3.95
White ..... each 3.95
Red ..... each 3.95

Forsythia—This newer variety attains a height of 5-8 feet. Deep golden yellow bloom appears very early in the spring on the bare stems often times covering them. Then the leaves appear and give a open screening effect. Very erect and upright in growth.
Lynwood Gold ..... each 2.95
Farrand ..... each 2.95

Golden Vicary—An accent shrub. Golden foliage. each 2.95

Honeysuckle—This family is large and offers many different plants. The shrub varies from 4-10 ft. in height.

Claveys Dwarf—4-5 ft. A hardy dwarf that has yellow flowers in May and a red berry in the fall. each 2.50

Zabeli's—Basically a pink bloom to the shrub that will reach an ultimate height of 10 feet. Berries cover the plant in late summer and fall. Plant is used widely for screening. each 2.95

Arnolds Red—A new variety this year with a red bloom to it. Berries are profuse and follow the same pattern as the other honeysuckles. 5-6 feet in height. each 2.95

Hydrangea—This shrub has an immense head to it in bloom and comes in white and pink. The bloom may be made blue by adding acid to the soil. Likes some shade.

A. G. (Arborescens Grandiflora) — Compact growing to 3-4 ft. Blooms from July 'til late summer. Large white bloom. each 3.25

P. G.—(Panticulata Grandiflora) — This shrub grows to a height of 5-6 ft. It blooms in August and sends out a pinkish-white flower which deepens to a reddish bronze. each 3.25

Hypericum—Shrub grows to a height of 3-4 ft. Blooms almost all summer with a beautiful little gold flower. Very glossy foliage. each 2.95

Ilex—(Holly) — See Specialty Container Section.

Kerria, Japonica—Shrub grows to a height of about 4 ft. Blooms in Spring with round golden flowers on slender branches. each 2.95

Lilac, French—The French Lilac is a hybrid that will ultimately grow to 15 ft. It has a longer bloom than any of the others and comes in a variety of colors.
Mme. Lemoine—white
Charles X—red
Ludwig Spaeth—purple
Belle de Nancy—rose
each 3.95

Lilac, Persian—This shrub is used basically for hedging and will attain an ultimate height of about 6-8 ft. Very fragrant purple flowers. Blooms in late Spring. See Container Shrubs

Mahonia, Oregon Grape Holly—See Container Shrubs.

Maple, Japanese Red—See Container Small Trees.

Mockorange—The Mockorange family is also very large and diversified. The shrub as a whole family generally likes almost any climate. It is known for its beautiful fragrant white flowers which appear in May or June depending on the variety.

Glacier—Db. white flower on a compact shrub. Bloom appears in late May. Height of shrub is 6 ft. each 3.25

Frosty Morn—Dwarf variety which grows to 3-4 ft. Double white bloom appears in late June. each 3.25

Ninebark, Nana—Dwarf form, only attains a height of 4 ft. Dk. green foliage with white blooms in June followed by the same reddish fruit which turn purple during the summer. each 2.50

Potentilla—Commonly referred to as Gold Drop. Height is only about 2-3 ft. Yellow buttercup shaped bloom lasts from early June until October. each 3.25

Pyracantha ..... See Container Shrubs

Pussy Willow—This is the Pink variety. It attains a height of 12-15 ft. Pussy willows appear in the early spring. each 3.25

Red Bud Shrub—See Flowering Trees (pg. 12).

Rhododendrons—See Speciality Container Section

Russian Olive ..... each 2.95

Smoke Trees—See Container Small Trees Section.

Spirea—The Spirea is also a large family and is probably best known by the white bloomer called bridal wreath. Spirea is generally considered a shrub that will grow to about 6 ft.
A.W.—A dwarf—3 ft. A Red each 2.75
Coccinea—dwarf—pink bloom each 2.95
Heavenly Blue — dwarf—blue bloom ..... each 2.75
Prunifolia—a double white . each 3.25
Van Houtte—old-fashioned white ..... each 2.25

Sumac—Staghorn—A new hybrid from an old-fashioned plant. Known best for its beautiful fall coloration of red foliage. Shrub will grow to about 10 ft. each 2.95

Tamarix—An upright shrub with feathery green foliage. Small pink flowers are borne on the top of branches in late May. Can reach a height of about 10 ft. each 2.95

Virburnum—A large family of which two varieties grow the best in our climate.
Highbush cranberry—Grows about 8 ft. in height. It develops a white flower in May and then produces beautiful red berries in the fall. Birds love them. Foliage green in summer, turning red in fall. each 3.25

Snowball—About 8 ft. tall. Large white heads of flowers that hang on the bush appear in May. each 3.25

Weigelia—This too is a varied class with three varieties handled by the nursery. These we have found do the best for us:
Bristol Ruby — Height of shrub 5-6 ft. Hardy variety. Soft ruby-red blooms that turn deep crimson. each 2.95
Vaniceki — Ruby red blooms in June. Grows to a height of 5-6 ft. each 2.95
Variegated—Light pink bloom but the outstanding point of this variety is its foliage which is green surrounded by yellow on the leaves. Height 6 ft. makes a fine specimen. each 2.95

Campbell's easy to plant CANNED SHRUBS, EVERGREENS AND SMALL TREES

More and more of our plant materials are being grown in a container which is of great benefit to the homeowner, the nurseryman, and the plant which you are purchasing. To plant in these circumstances simply requires the cutting and removal of the can which allows the root system of the plant to remain undistrubed as it was, while growing in the can. Also, with a container plant, the planting season is greatly extended, allowing us to plant whenever we wish to do so. Thirdly, with a container plant, it has been started for you. It normally has at least one more full year's growth than would a bare root packaged shrub. When planting a container shrub there is no trimming to be done; which allows us a larger plant material than with a doramnt shrub which must be trimmed back at least ½ its height to give the plant a good start. Because of these reasons, we find that our loss ratio is almost nonexistent and our plant quickly adjusts to its new surroundings allowing you, the homeowner, a more beautiful landscape much quicker. For a more complete description of the plant materials listed below, please refer to page 1 and 3 where you will find each of these plants in other sizes. If you have any questions, please feel free to call the nursery for advice.

Canned Specialty Items

We, at Campbell's feel that besides our normal hardy stock, a specialty plant often adds a note of distinction to a planting. Most of these plants must be taken indoors during the winter but are a beautiful addition to a patio or garden during the growing seasons.

Azalea (Kurume)—A very profuse blooming azalea which is proving to be the hardiest of all. Usually used as an addition for beautiful coloration on a patio. Success has been acheived in bringing this azalea through the winter leaving it planted in the ground year round in protected areas. Many colors.

Coral Bells—a Bright salmon pink ..... 1 gal. 4.95

Hinodegiri—A bright carmine red ..... 1 gal. 4.95

Salmon Beauty—A brilliant salmon ..... 1 gal. 4.95

Snow—the best of the pure whites ..... 1 gal. 4.95

Gardenia, Mystery—A beautiful double gardenia which in bloom permeates its surroundings with its tantalizing fragrance. This plant must be kept indoors during the winter months but is a most welcome addition to a seasonal landscape. Used on Patios or in protected garden areas, it becomes an accent plant and is the talk of parties.
.... 1 gal. 2.95 ..... 5 gal. 9.95
..... 5 gal. Espaliered 22.95

Hibiscus—Known the world over for its beautiful large blooms and glossy foliage. Those that we carry are all espaliered on redwood trellises to allow the plant to spread out and allow you the full beauty of the plant. Again this plant is a speciality item and a rarity in our area offering "the talk of the neighborhood" backyard item. Many colors.

Agnes Gault—A single bright rose pink bloom ..... 5 gal. 22.95

Fullmoon—Brilliant double yellow of a lemon shade ..... 5 gal. 22.95

President—A large single flower of rich intense red. ... 5 gal. 22.95

Oleander—This beautiful tree-shaped midwest rarity brings a touch of the deep south to our Nebraska back yards. With its lacy foliage and cluster bloom, the oleander makes an attractive addition to any plantings.

Sister Agnes--A single pure white flower ..... 5 gal. 12.95

ILEX (Holly)—The holly family, although being a broad class, is rarely seen in Lincoln growing year round. Through our buyers, we feel that we are offering three of the most beautiful varieties as far as foliage and berry are concerned. Again the Holly, being basically a plant of the Pacific Northwest, is not completely hardy in our area. It should be planted on the north or east; or grown in a large tub for accent planting.

Cornuta Burfordi ..... 5 gal. 10.95
Cornuta Dazzler ..... 5 gal. 10.95
Opaca Fostori ..... 5 gal. 10.95

Rhododendrons—add a riot of color to any area and are budded and ready to bloom at sales time. Again another rarity for your planting. Variety of colors; red, pink and white.

HEDGES • GROUND COVERS • VINES

HEDGES: Listed in this section are the plant materials that are most commonly used for hedges. However, any of the flowering shrubs could be made into a hedge. Most trimmed hedges are usually made of Amur River Privet, Honeysuckle, Spirea or Barberry. For an informal hedging material, the Cotoneaster Acutifolia makes a very beautiful hedge that can be grown naturally or trimmed. Most of these plants are planted about a foot apart for tight hedges and as far as three feet apart for a loose hedge.

GROUND COVERS: Here we have a plant material that is becoming more popular each year. Ground covers are used where many times grass will not grow. They are also used around plantings to take away that bare look of the soil and are used in areas where we need to hold the soil from washing. The list of ground covers gets longer each year and by testing the newest ones, we have arrived at a list that does well in Nebraska. Many of the ground covers bloom and give us a tremendous show in the spring. If you have a problem or if you would like to start ground cover, we would be most happy to talk to you about the area where you are going to plant these ground covers and advise the one that would be the most satisfactory.

TIMETABLE FOR A HEALTHY LAWN

1. Rake and clean up the entire lawn.
2. Apply Pre-emergence weed control as soon as the ground thaws in the Spring, before May 1st.
3. Apply a weed and feed control for Broadleaved weeds when the dandelions have started to grow, approximately April 15th to May 10th; depending upon the year.
4. Apply 3 applications of fungicide at three week intervals beginning the last week of April for the prevention of Fungus in the lawn. Powery Mildew may begin to appear at this time also in the shady, damp places of the lawn. A simple application of dusting-sulfur in these areas will clear up the problem.
5. If no weed Pre-emergence was applied, an application of an insecticide should be made for the prevention of white grubworm in the lawn. Materials used should be washed into the lawn heavily to get them to the root system of the lawn where the grubs work. Application should be made June 1.
6. By the 15th of July, apply a spray or granular product for the prevention and control of Sod Webworm. Due to the many hatchings throughout the season, at least 3 applications should be made one month apart.
7. If no Pre-emergence crabgrass control was applied and crabgrass is present, then apply a liquid crabgrass control. The application must be repeated in 7-10 days.
8. With the use of combination products in the Spring, no heavy fertilization is necessary during the summer months. If one is to be used, we recommend either a liquid such as Ortho-Gro or Greenol Iron.
9. The ideal date to begin fall reseeding of a lawn is August 15th-September 15th. All of September though is good but when we get into October, it is getting late. Fall seeding is by far superior to any other time of the year.
10. Fall fertilization should be applied now. This is by far the most important thing that can be done to a lawn in the fall and a double application of fertilizer should be applied.
11. Fall is the ideal time for control of all broadleaved weeds. Apply a form of 2-4-D to have a weed free lawn the next Spring.
12. Of course, the lawn should be kept well watered throughout the growing season, but a deep watering should be made as often as possible in the fall for winter protection of the grass.
13. Last of November—A fungicide should be applied especially in areas where snow is piled or builds up during the winter to help prevent the occurrence of snow mold.

This year plant Campbell's famous Potted Roses

Our potted roses

ROSES: Campbell's Nurseries have been potting roses for over 20 years. Our 1969 crop of No. 1 western-grown roses will all be potted and growing when you make your selections. We are very proud of our roses and think that we have acquired the best roses that are grown on the West Coast. The advantages of the potted rose are many: (1) You can plant when the weather is warm enough to make it enjoyable for both the planter and the plant. (2) There is no waiting for dormancy to break as we do this for you under the most ideal conditions. (3) These roses are growing in the best mixture of soil possible so the first part of the rose's life is sure to be a success. (4) Loss of potted roses is a rarity. In scanning our list of over 165 varieties of hybrid teas, grandifloras, floribundas, polyanthas and climbers, you will find that we have them listed in patented varieties and non-patented varieties, in different colors of red, pink, yellow, lavender, two-tone and white. Also be sure and note the new All-American Rose Selections for 1969, along with the many old favorites that have been tried and true for Nebraska climates for many years. At times we will run short of some of the more popular varieties of roses, so if you would like to have us save varieties of your choice, please call the nursery and we will be most happy to keep them here at the nursery until planting time, and you will avoid the disappointment of us being out of the varieties you have chosen.

CARE OF ROSES

1. Unmound roses after growth signs are evident on plant usually in April. Trimming should be done at this time, cut the rose back to 6-8" high except climbers where only dead wood should be removed.
2. Fertilize roses well at this time.
3. Spread mulches around plants to hold moisture and protect plants from black spot and other fungus diseases.
4. Rose spray program should begin with first leaf growth of plant in Spring. Combination insecticide and fungicide should be used. Liquid rose food may be added to give full combination spray. Spray should be applied at 7-10 day intervals throughout the growing season.
5. Roses should be fertilized at monthly intervals throughout the growing season.
6. Water rose bed well throughout the season—soaking not sprinkling the bed to avoid the splash of soil upon the leaves.
7. For September feeding, apply bone meal or super phosphate instead of rose food to build more roots and stems for winter protection.
8. With heavy freeze, mound roses for winter to protect the rose graft.

TIME-TABLE FOR SPRAYING TREES AND EVERGREENS

1. Dutch Elm Disease—There is no known cure for Dutch Elm disease. A program of sanitation and a spraying with DDT during the winter months up until the first of April has proven the most effective prevention.

2. Needle Cast of Pines—Through extensive research done by the University of Nebraska, they have determined that this disease can be controlled if the pines are sprayed in May by the 20th, and a second spraying one month later by June 20th, using Bordeaux as the fungicide.

3. Anthracnose of Sycamore—This disease has to be treated when the leaves are first unfolding on the trees. One application of Panogen fungicide will usually control this disease.

4. Red Spiders on Evergreens—Red Spider build up on evergreens usually occurs at the first advent of warm weather. A spraying of all evergreens with Isotox at 1-month intervals throughout the summer will usually control this mite.

5. Bagworm on evergreens—Bagworms hatch out about the middle of June and are usually seen in numbers around the first of July and on through until fall. Regular spraying of Isotox at monthly intervals will usually control this insect. If the worm has matured, the addition of lead arsenate to the spray is advisable.

6. Mimosa Webworm on Locusts—This worm usually starts its damage around the first of July and by the first of August has usually striped the tree of its foliage. Two sprayings, with Isotox, first on July 15th and the second on August 15th usually keep the tree green.

7. Borers in shade trees—The beetle of the borer usually lays her eggs sometime around the last of May and the first of June, so regular sprayings one week apart at this season will control most of the borers. The trunks can be painted or sprayed with a heavy solution of Lindane, DDT or Dieldrin. After the borers have once entered the tree or shrub, then each hole must be treated with Borer-Kill, which is inserted into the hole, killing the worm.

TIME-TABLE FOR SPRAYING FLOWERS AND SHRUBS

1. Dormant spray for shrubs—Dormant spray should be applied during the winter any time that the temperature is above forty degrees until the buds start to unfold their foliage. Do not use dormant spray after this time or it will burn the foliage. Dormant spray is used mainly to control scale insects.

2. Roses—Roses should be sprayed regularly at 7-10 day intervals from the time the leaves first unfold until they are put to bed in the fall. I think the most accepted spray is a combination of Isotox and Phaltan used through one of Ortho's bottle sprayers. Rose dust is acceptable if it is done thoroughly with a good duster, and one is sure that the dust gets on the underside of the leaf.

3. Peony Blight—Peonies should be sprayed when they first come through the ground and are one inch high with a solution of Bordeaux mixture. This spraying should be repeated when the stems are six to eight inches high.

DISEASE AND INSECT PROBLEMS OF LAWN

Each spring and summer certain diseases will appear in our lawns and sometimes if left unchecked will destroy large portions of the turf. Most of the time good cultural practices, preventatve sprays, or corrective spraying at the right time will eliminate the problem or at least limit the damage to small areas that can easily be renovated. The following tips are for prevention of this damage with approximate dates of usual occurance.

Snow Mold—This disease occurs in the early spring as the lawn comes out of its dormant stage. Fungicides may be used in the Fall as a preventative measure. Good results have been obtained from Scutl, Panogen Turf Spray or Zineb.

Grubs—This insect can completely destroy a lawn if left unchecked. Use Sevin, Chlordane or Heptachlor. DO THIS BY THE 15th OF JUNE EACH YEAR and soak in thoroughly, and you should not be troubled with Grubs.

Web-Worm—This worm will begin to damage the lawn about the middle of July. The symptoms are the same as Grubs, but the Web Worm works near the surface of the lawn so the Chlordane used earlier has leached below where the Web-Worm is working. We recommend that you treat your lawn with either DDT, Sevin or Diazinon about July 15. Water lightly and let dry for 24 hours. Repeat treatment at three week intervals for complete control.

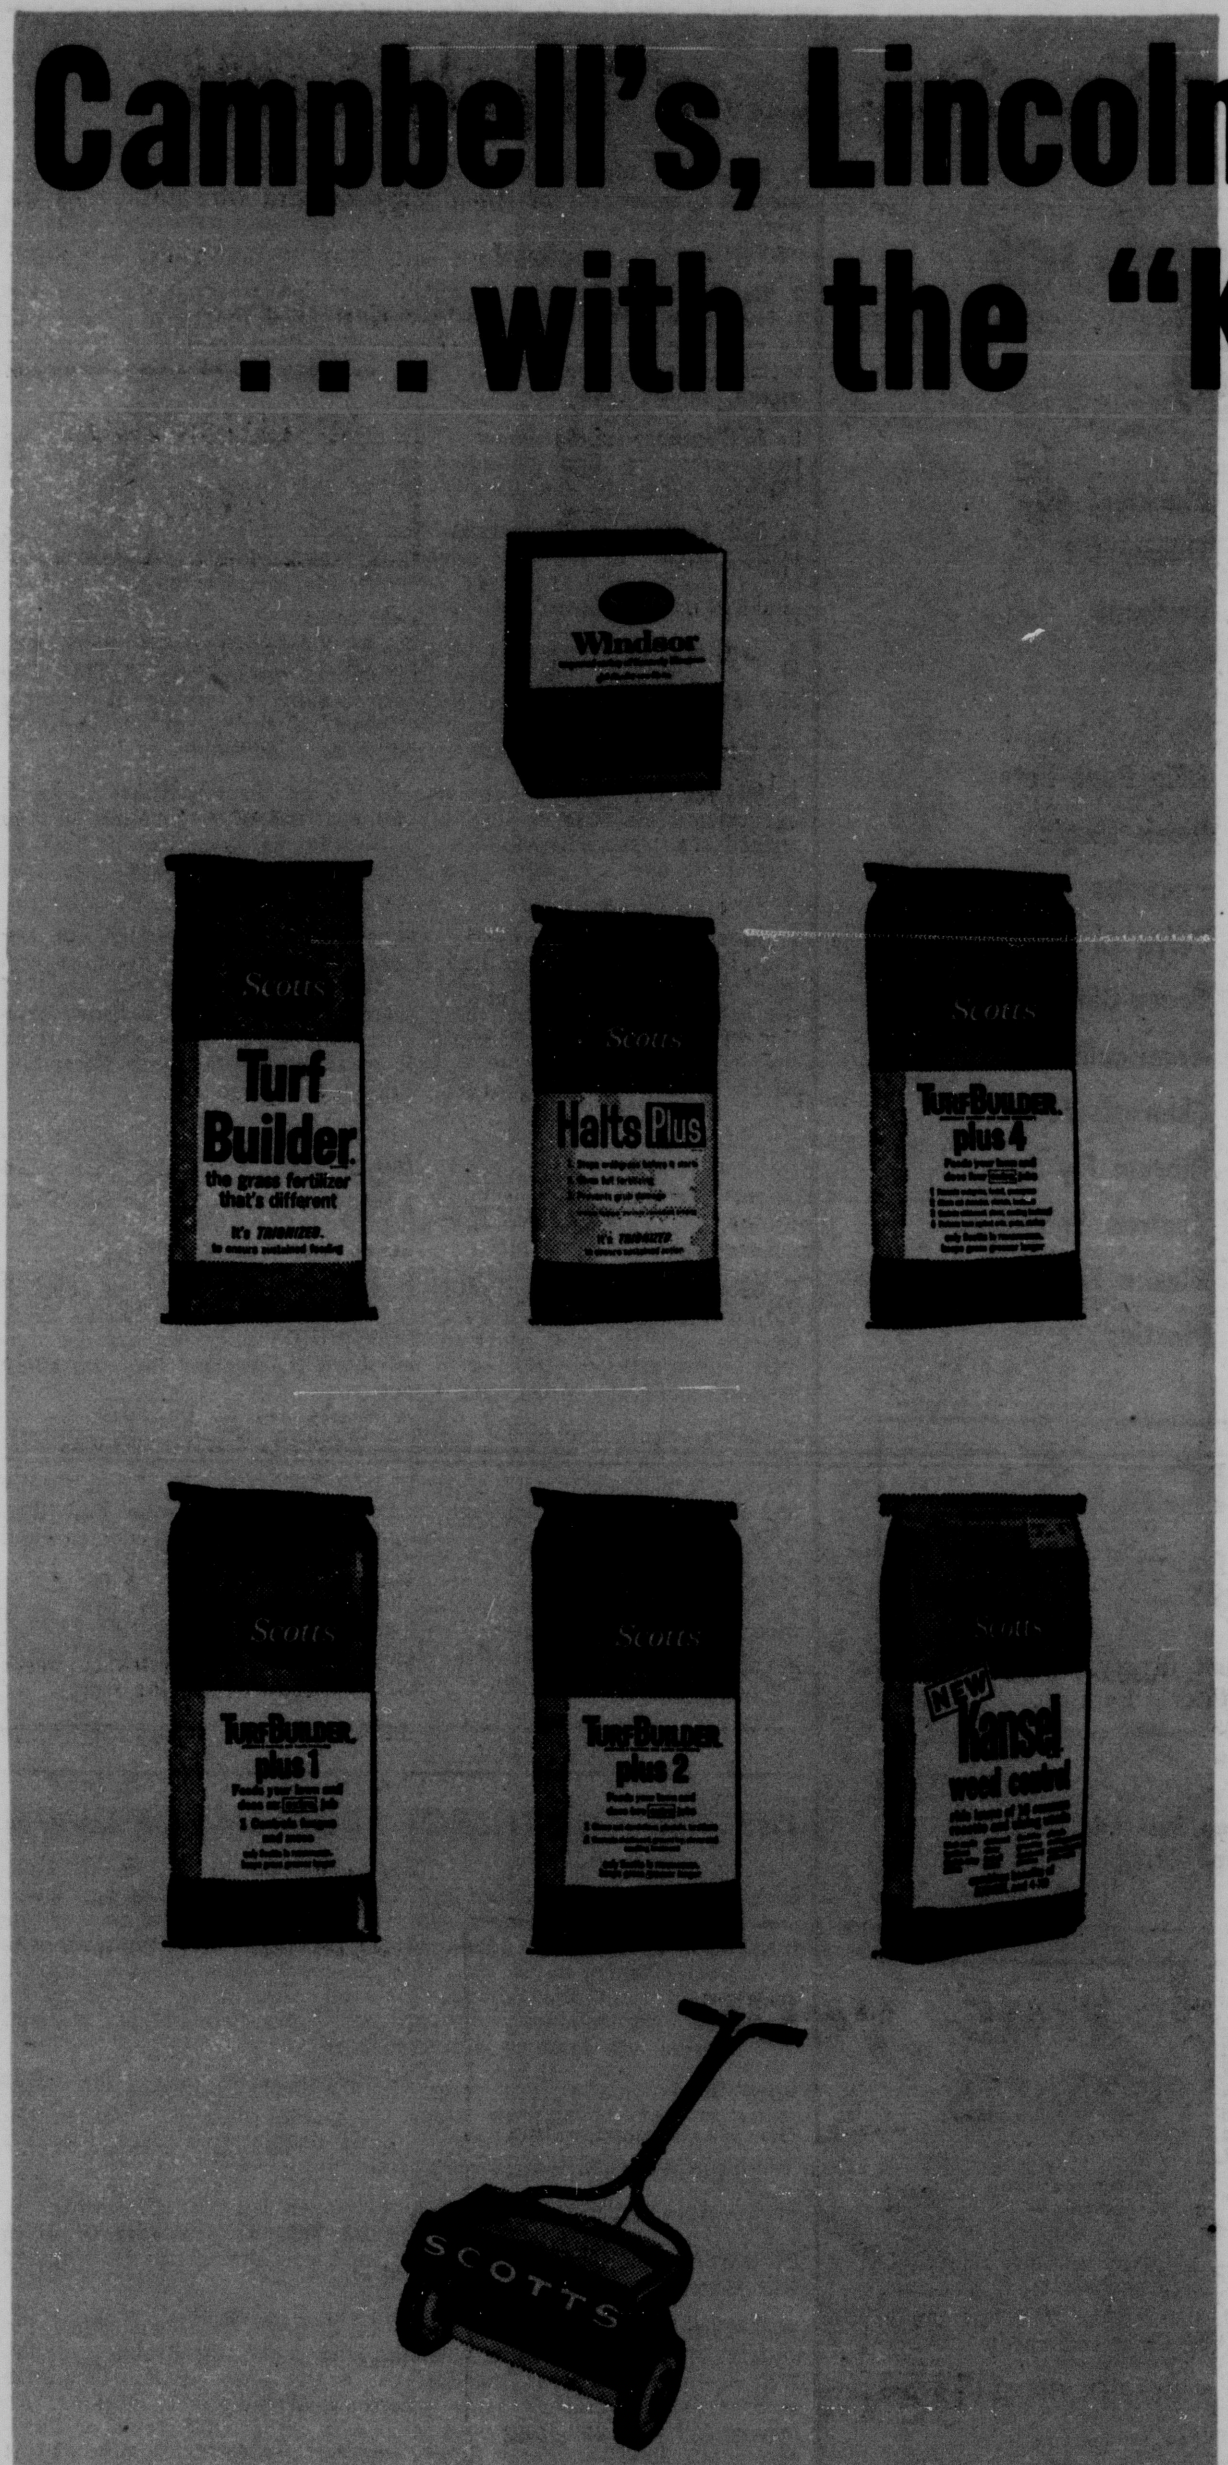

Helminthosporium Fungus—This is a confusing disease because there are two strains—one working in the early spring during cool weather and the other strain working during the hot humid months of summer. If one has been troubled with the summer type of Fungus it is wise to put protective sprays on the lawn at 2-3 week intervals starting about April 15 for 3 applications. May be necessary to continue applications thru summer at 30 day intervals. Some of the most effective fungicides are Scott's Scutl, Panogen, Dyrene, Zineb and Actidione.

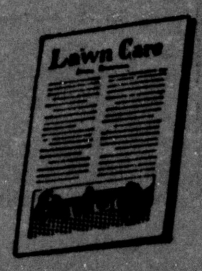

RUST—This disease has been increasing in the last few years and appears in the late summer and early fall. The use of Zineb as a spray has given good control. Spray in late August or early Sept.

MILDEW—This fungus disease has become a real nuisance in the last 5 years. This disease appears in the early spring and in cool fall weather. It should be treated, as it can weaken or kill out areas of the Turf. The use of Actidione RZ solution has been the most effective fungicide for us, but sometimes people can control mildew with dustings of dry sulphur. Any of the better fungicides are effective and Mildew is probably the easiest fungus to eliminate.

Please feel free to check with us at the Nursery if you are troubled with Lawn diseases and we will be glad to consult with you and give you the benefit of our experiences.

Plant SHADE TREES Now!

SHADE TREES: In this category we find the leafy trees that are mainly used for framing trees for the home or for shade on patios or play areas. We commonly talk about the soft-wooded trees and the hard-wooded trees and generally speaking, we mean that the soft woods are the fast-growing trees and the hard woods are the slow-growing trees. Remember that the fast-growing trees are more susceptible to wind damage because of their soft wood, while the hard-wooded trees normally are the trees that will last many, many years without damage. In planning a landscape, as much money as possible should be put into the shade trees because they are probably the slowest part of the landscape to develop over the years. You will notice that we refer to caliper inch in measuring shade trees. Each caliper inch is one inch of diameter of the trunk either six inches above the ground or a foot above the ground in the case of larger trees. Remember that we have larger specimen trees growing at the Nursery for your inspection.

ASH, BLUE—Compact globe shaped tree. Bluish green foliage. Seedless.

...also beautiful FLOWERING TREES

FLOWERING TREES: In this category come many, many flowering trees that are so attractive in the early spring. Many times a flowering tree can be more effective on the low ranch-style homes that are so common in this area. Many people have refused to plant the flowering crabs because of the apples that are formed, but if the tree is sprayed while in full bloom with the product "Sevin," the flowers will become sterile and the fruit will not develop. Red-leafed flowering plums are very attractive for their red foliage, giving a much needed contrast to the other colors of the landscape.

CRAB, ALMEY—Large blossoms of red petals with white markings.
5-6' $11.95
6-7' $12.95

CRAB, CRIMSON BRILLIANT—Medium height. Rapid grower. Red flowering with purple red fruit. Semi-double blooms.

2-3' $15.95

RED BUD, SHRUB FORM—
4-5' $14.95
5-6' $18.95
6-8' $29.95

RED BUD, TREE FORM—
3-4' $9.95
5-6' $13.95

RED BUD, FOREST PANSY—New growth shows a brilliant red and then turns to a deep crimson. Flowering occurs early and is same as other red buds.
2-3' $13.95

WHITE BUD — Very attractive. Grows like the red bud but has a lovely array of white flowers.
4-5' $18.95
5-6' $24.95
6-8' $39.95

WISTERIA TREE — See container section small trees.

Expert LANDSCAPING

Experienced landscape nurserymen are a part of our organization and their services are available for your use. Call us if you have a problem of where to place new plants or how to revamp old plantings. Many times the difference between a good planting and a poor one is in the arrangement of the plants.

OUR GUARANTEE

Only quality, healthy growing nursery stock will be sold at our Nursery, and we guarantee such stock to be true to name. If such stock should prove otherwise, we will replace or refund the purchase price.

We shall in no case be liable for any sum greater than the amount originally received for said nursery stock. Nursery stock that fails to show green by July 1st will be replaced free the following season if it is planted by our planting crews or at one half price if planted by the customer, provided claims are made in writing or in person before July 1st, and customer has paid bill in full.

THIS GUARANTEE DOES NOT COVER STOCK THAT FAILS TO GROW DUE TO NEGLECT OR ADVERSE WEATHER CONDITIONS. IN NO CASE WILL STOCK BE REPLACED MORE THAN ONCE.

This guarantee does not cover annual or perennial plants, seeds, bulbs, or tubers or any plant established in a pot, as the success of these items is usually attributed to the care given. Prices subject to change without notice.
